Vicious Murder Tale Given By 3 Companions Of H. C. Dickinson Slayer

Police Are Stunned by the Unemotional Manner in Which Groundwork for Alleged Murder Was Prepared.

TAKEN FOR A "RIDE"

Jean Miller Tells First How the Wealthy Appearing Attorney Was Killed for His Money.

Detroit, July 2 (AP).—Howard Carter Dickinson, slain New York attorney, dined and drank with his killers and paid their dinner check a few hours before they shot him to death in a robbery, it was disclosed today in the last of a series of confessions made by William Lee Ferris and his three "party girls" companions.

Early this morning Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea reported that he had fitted together the last pieces of the puzzle picture of Dickinson's murder, drawing from three screaming, half hysterical girls the admission that "we decided to kill him" because "dead men tell no tales."

The complete absence of feeling, which police questioners reported as stunning, earmarked details of each confession they said as it came forth in greater detail during the night from Ferris and his companions. Loretta and Florence Jackson, burlesque dancers, and Jean Miller.

The story that Dickinson, well groomed, wealthy appearing counsellor, was taken for a "ride" and killed for his money, came first from the Miller girl. Fighting off hysteria through hours of questioning, Prosecutor McCrea said she finally blurted out that Ferris killed their victim and that the girls rifled the pockets of clothing for money.

Ferris Breaks Down.

Confronted with her admission, McCrea said Ferris broke down, and told that the prosecutor said he thought was the "whole story."

But it was from Florence Jackson, that McCrea reported obtaining the details of the intrigue which he said linked the quartet in the murder.

"Loretta, Bill and myself talked about taking Dickinson out when we were in Bill's room Tuesday night," McCrea quoted her as saying in her statement.

Methods Discussed.

"We all agreed that Dickinson had a lot of money and that we ought to get a lot from him. Bobbie (Loretta) and I suggested rolling him, but Bill said it might be a hard thing to do. He was against it because he was afraid that Dickinson might talk. We then suggested knocking him out, but Bill said that was too dangerous because he would be able to talk when he came to, and would be able to identify us.

"He thought the only thing for us to do would be to kill him. There was some argument about that, but we finally decided to let Bill get his gun and we'd take him out.

"We decided to kill him."

Signals Arranged

In describing the plot Florence said they arranged to signal Ferris when the thought the time was ripe for the robbery. "We laid plans for the signals," McCrea quoted her as saying, "with Jean included in the plans. Then we didn't talk much more about them Wednesday night, because Dickinson came up and we had dinner with him."

The prosecutor said Ferris described how he and the Jackson sisters struck up an acquaintance with Dickinson in the dining room of a hotel (Book Cadillac) last Tuesday night, decided he had money, and made a date with him for Wednesday night. The Miller girl joined the party that night.

Riding through Rouge Park after dinner Wednesday night, the four had consumed a quart of whiskey and played nickel poker in Ferris' hotel room. McCrea quoted Ferris as saying the girls asked to get out of the car.

Put Gun on Dickinson

"Then I put the gun on Dickinson," said Ferris, according to McCrea. "He wouldn't put his hands up so I let him have it. The gun went off a second time as I was pulling Dickinson's coat and vest off."

The girls told the prosecutor that before Dickinson died, he said: "You're a damn fool. You kids are making a mistake."

McCrea said that Florence told him in her confession that she and Jean "grabbed for the coat and vest."

"We didn't find any money in the vest. But Jean took the wallet out of the coat pocket and I took out a small book. There was $14 in the book. Jean counted out $120 she took from the wallet.

"Bill said: 'That's a hell of a small amount to kill a man for. I thought there'd be some fifties in there. But he won't talk any more.'"

McCrea said he did not plan any speedy court action against the quartet. "I'm not going to rush this," he said. "I'm getting just what I want."

Loretta's Confession

Loretta Jackson's confession, as announced by the prosecutor early this morning, disclosed that Florence made the first gesture in striking up an acquaintance with Dickinson while the New York lawyer was dining at a nearby table Tuesday night.

"We noticed a man about a table

Mayor Heiselman Will Propose Plan to Reduce Taxes Over $4

Proposition Expected To Be Submitted To Common Council Tonight Which Calls For Large Reduction In Taxes For 1936—Lesser Reductions To Be Included For Year 1937 and 1938.

It is understood that Mayor C. J. Heiselman will present a plan to the Common Council this evening, which, if adopted will reduce the city tax rate nearly $5 a thousand for the year 1936, and a lesser amount for the years 1937 and 1938, without increasing the bonded indebtedness of the city, and not involving the refunding of maturing bonds.

Mayor Heiselman when seen this morning before he left Kingston to attend the exercises marking the opening of the Rip Van Winkle Bridge at Catskill said that he was preparing a communication which he would submit to the Common Council for its adoption or rejection at the regular monthly meeting tonight. Just what the plan he proposed was he did not care to discuss until it had been presented to the aldermen for action.

Through economies effected during the first year he served the city as mayor, Mayor Heiselman reduced the tax rate $4 a thousand, and the reduction came at a time when it was most needed by home owners who have been sorely stricken by the years of the depression.

The plan that the mayor is expected to present has been given careful study by Mayor Heiselman in order to afford still further relief to hard-pressed home owners.

It has been the policy of Mayor Heiselman since assuming office to work for the interest of the taxpayers as he has realized that with mounting federal, state and other taxes that they were in need of relief.

Just what the council will do with the plan to be proposed by the mayor is not known, but undoubtedly it will be adopted by unanimous vote of the aldermen.

Man Prepares Death For Two, Then Nerve Fails

Chicago, July 2 (AP).—Elizabeth Ganschaw, 58, was tired; exhausted by ten years' illness which recently resulted in permanent paralysis of her left side.

But, police said today, she had nerve.

For William, her 60-year-old husband, life likewise seemed to hold little. Their five living children are married and have homes of their own. His job as a mechanic offered scant opportunity for happiness or wealth; his nights were spent caring for his invalid wife.

He, too, had nerve, police said, but not enough.

The officers told the story of William and Elizabeth today—a couple that should have been cheered by Elizabeth's return from the hospital yesterday, but wasn't.

Instead, they said, the couple talked it over and decided to die.

Then, officials reported, the husband, helping his wife just as he had for 10, long, worried years, tenderly dressed Elizabeth in her finest kimono. Himself he clothed in his best suit.

While Elizabeth watched every move, William fastened a rubber tube to a wall gas jet, turned on the gas and put the hose in her mouth. They kissed and he sat down to watch her die.

Soon she was gone, her wish fulfilled. Elizabeth had nerve.

Then it was William's turn.

But it was from William, the police said they heard the story.

He told them, they said, he tried to put the tube to his mouth, his hand faltered, he tried again.

Then sobbing, he turned to the phone, called police and cried:

"My nerve failed. I didn't want to die that way."

WATCHMAN GETS WATCHMAN TO WATCH OUT FOR GHOSTS.

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 2 (AP).—Cornelius Reid, 34-year-old negro nightwatchman for a Greenpoint Coal Company, saw the "ghost" of his predecessor last night and it took a radio alarm, six police patrol cars, an ambulance and six doctors to revive him.

Last Wednesday night Oscar Wilson, watchman for the Fleer Bros. Coal Co., was found dead in the firm's garage. Cornelius was reluctantly promoted to the vacancy caused by his death.

All went well until midnight last night when "a coughing white form" disturbed Cornelius' guardian wanderings. He called police, who reassured him that all was well.

He stayed reassured for only a few minutes. Then ghostly poundings began to echo through the garage. Cornelius stood it until he saw "two bony white hands float in through the window."

Hhen he bolted and ran for six blocks to fall down in a "dead" faint. An observer, unacquainted with Cornelius' encounter with the ghost, telephoned police that he had seen a man fall dead in the street.

The rush of patrol cars, ambulances and doctors converged on the recumbent form of Cornelius.

Doctors from Greenpoint Hospital could find no pulse and only a faint heart flicker when they arrived at the scene. He was rushed to the hospital, where he was revived, attaches said, by a stiff drink of whiskey after other means failed.

Cornelius—still reluctant—will go back on the job tonight watching cars, his employer, Henry Fleer, Jr., said, but there will be an assistant watchman to watch ghosts.

3,000 RELIEF CAMP WORKERS SUBDUED

Regina, Sask., July 2 (AP).—Three thousand relief camp strikers, who battled Royal Canadian Mounted Police in a riot during which a municipal officer was beaten to death, were subdued today by tear gas and gun fire.

A second officer and a striker were injured critically. Five more policemen and a score of strikers were hurt before the police quelled the crowd, arrested 27 persons and dispersed the others, pursuing them relentlessly through the streets.

The riot broke out after the mounted police and city officers charged a mass meeting of the strikers, baited by lack of funds in their march on Ottawa to protest against relief camp conditions. The strikers faced removal to a dominion camp, pending return to their homes.

Constable Charles Miller of the Regina police was the man beaten to death, and Constable Francis of the mounted police was injured seriously. One man identified as a striker, Dan McGee, was reported dying, and many other strikers were injured.

Lobby Fist Fight

Washington, July 2 (AP)—A fist fight in the lobby of the senate office building today inaugurated the senate investigation of mal-administration charges against Governor Paul M. Pearson of the Virgin Islands. The combatants were identified by Governor Pearson as Paul Yates, former administrative assistant to Pearson, and Robert S. Allen, Washington columnist and newspaperman. They were taken to the senate guard room by capitol police.

"I Got $9 for My Part In the Murder," Wails Show Girl Jackson

Robbery and Murder of Howard C. Dickinson Results in Total Loot of $134 and Murder Charge—Party Girls Expose Racket.

Detroit, July 2 (AP)—Nine dollars was the share allotted to Florence Jackson of the $134 taken from the slain Howard Carter Dickinson, and with it she purchased a $3 dress, $2 shoes, 79-cent stockings, 19-cent gloves and a 90-cent hat.

"My God, murder," she wailed after she and three others had made confessions implicating them in the robbery and killing. "And I got $9 for my part."

Held with the young woman are two other "party girls" and William Lee Ferris, 26. The girls and Ferris have been acquainted about two months and during that time had been in the business of "picking up men we thought had money, getting them drunk and then rolling them."

Florence Jackson and her sister, Loretta, told detectives they met Ferris two months ago in a cafe where they were engaged in a 'sister act." The girls had been burlesque dancers and friends of Jean Miller, who told detectives the purpose of their association with Ferris.

Loretta Jackson is 27 years old, divorced and the mother of two children. Her 24-year-old sister is married but separated from her husband. Both girls use their maiden names.

Jean Miller is 23, and separated from her husband, William Miller, who has made futile attempts to see her since her arrest.

Ferris came to the attention of Detroit police about five years ago when he was tried for the murder of his room-mate, Albert Burke, 22. Ferris was acquitted. He said that Burke had robbed him and that he shot Burke when the latter struck him during a quarrel over the alleged robbery.

Ferris' natal name was William Schweitzer, but he adopted the name Ferris before his marriage six years ago. His wife, Violet Ferris, 22, is an expectant mother. She has said she would stand by her husband, who left her three weeks ago.

Acquaintances told the prosecutor that most of Ferris' aliases were the names of persons he knew, and that his practice of borrowing names had involved several of them in his troubles. He has been arrested frequently on various minor charges.

Pulled off Rocks

Montauk, N. Y., July 2 (AP)—The fishing schooner Comanche II was pulled off the rocks off Montauk last night by the Coast Guard cutter Jackson after three days of unsuccessful efforts to move her. She was towed around Montauk Point to the Greenport shipyard, where it was found that no serious damage had been done to the hull. Capt. Joseph Monaco, the boat's owner, of Sheepshead Bay, N. Y., stayed on the vessel during the three days' rescue operations. The Comanche ran onto the rocks in a fog while returning from a fishing trip.

Two Men Charged With Abandonment Sent To Clinton State Prison

Herbert MacCauley and Charles DePew Sentenced By Judge Traver To Dannemora For Abandoning Their Families.

OTHER SENTENCES

Delancey O'Banks Placed on Parole and Joseph Porcaro Placed on Probation Until Sept. 9.

Abandonment and non-support in Ulster county apparently is destined to become an unpopular offense judging from the attitude which County Judge Frederick G. Traver took Monday afternoon in two cases which came before him in the final session of County Court until next fall.

Herbert MacCauley of Ellenville, who was charged with abandoning his family there and going to Hoosic Falls to woe and win another maiden and raise a second family, will spend the next few years in Clinton State Prison at Dannemora. MacCauley had been given several opportunities to get out and secure a job and aid his first family but he apparently desired to remain in jail and let his family suffer or go on relief. When the judge pronounced a prison sentence instead of a jail sentence MacCauley appeared startled and later showed his surprise and dislike to a prison sentence. The term imposed is from 2 to 4 years in Clinton State Prison.

In moving judgment in the MacCauley case District Attorney Murray called attention of the court to the "defiant" manner in which MacCauley had acted throughout the entire proceeding. He said that MacCauley was charged with a violation of Section 480, abandonment of his family, and stated that the defendant has failed to support his wife and four children whom he abandoned at Ellenville. The proceedings he said had not been instituted by the wife but by Welfare officials who had been compelled to care for the family. In addition to abandoning his family in Ulster county he said MacCauley had gone away and lived with another lady for some time and had started to raise a second family there.

Two Prior Convictions

Mac Cauley has two prior convictions for non support against him, one in Schoharie county and one in Ulster county. After residing for some time in Hoosic Falls a bench warrant was issued in Ulster county for MacCauley and it was while he was on his way by car from Hoosic Falls to Ulster county that the warrant was served and he was arrested. Mr. Murray said that defendant had left his family about Thanksgiving and had not returned until after Christmas and apparently had no idea of ever supporting his family. His attitude had been that he was under no obligation to support them. After his arrest MacCauley was given an opportunity to get low bail and get out and go to work if he would support his family. He made no effort to do so and Mr. Murray asked that sentence be imposed.

Judge Traver said that from the record MacCauley's record was bad and he intended to punish him. He said that evidently MacCauley was making no effort to support his family and he intended to impose such sentence as would make the charge of non-support an unpopular one. He imposed the prison sentence.

DePew Gets Prison Sentence

Charles DePew was the next one to face the court on a non-support charge. He too has consistently refused to aid his wife and children since back in 1932. DePew has faced the judge on several occasions and has always had plenty of promises and excuses. These are over, the court imposed a prison sentence. The sentence was from 1 to 2 years in Clinton State Prison at hard labor. DePew was indicted in September of 1932 and was given several chances to make good and support his children and family. Over that period he was on probation. The reports of the probation officer were not good and showed very small payments at times. In November, 1934, DePew pleaded guilty to the charge of failure to provide for his family when the bondsmen surrendered him and the case was about to be moved for trial. He agreed to pay 30 per cent of his earnings to his family, but did not make good. On April 15 he was in court and at that time he was

Kingston Takes Part In Rip Van Winkle Bridge Opening This Afternoon

Local Delegation of About 20 Cars and Commercial Displays Headed by Kingston Post Drum Corps To Participate.

THE NEW SPAN

Governor Lehman Heads List of State Officials Taking Part In Opening of Bridge.

Kingston, "the Convention City," was represented at the opening of the new Rip Van Winkle bridge at Catskill today by a delegation of about 20 cars and commercial displays. Headed by the drum corps of Kingston Post, American Legion, which was aboard a big open truck, the delegation left Academy Park shortly before 11 o'clock. Motorcycle Officer Barmann acted as an escort to the city line, where he dropped out of the procession and left the duty of police escort up to State Troopers Smith and Seneca, who had been assigned to lead the Kingston division of the parade.

The Kingston delegation was brilliant with flags flying and "official car" placards. In the line was the fire truck from Union Hose Company manned by a crew of firemen in full uniform.

Among the commercial displays were two cars of the City Service Oil Corporation, one a large tank truck and the other the "power prover" outfit of the company. The two spotless white trucks showed off in brilliant contrast to the red of the fire truck.

Another commercial unit which attracted much attention was the big Mack truck of the Peter Doelger Brewing Company and a smaller companion car. The Peter Doelger company on McEntee and Wurts street, Kingston, and will shortly reopen the plant for brewing purposes.

The Kingston delegation accompanied by several city officials and a number of individual cars which did not form in the line at Academy Park but which later joined the line were assigned to a division at Catskill and took part in the big parade during the afternoon.

The Kingston Business Men's Association had planned to have a float in line but this was cancelled. One of the trucks of the City Service Corporation bore a large sign reading, "Kingston, the Convention City".

Governor to Speak

Catskill, N. Y., July 2 (AP).—At the foot of the rolling mountains where old Rip Van Winkle hoisted the flagon and bowled with the "little men," New York state today dedicates a $2,350,000 bridge named for the famous character of American fiction.

Governor Herbert H. Lehman heads the list of state officials taking part in the formal opening of the span. The bridge crosses the Hudson river between Catskill and Hudson and if "Old Rip" rambled out of the hills today after a 20-year nap he could walk across to the Berkshires to continue his siesta.

The bridge was completed after two years of work and has 12,000 tons of steel in its framework. It is the only span between Albany and Poughkeepsie and will permit east-west motorists to save more than 20 miles of travel.

In addition to Governor Lehman, U. S. Senator Royal S. Copeland, Agriculture Commissioner Peter G. Ten Eyck, Col. Frederick Stuart Greene, commissioner of public works, and Francis W. Glynn, secretary to the New York State Bridge Authority, are included in the list of speakers.

The speaking program will get under way at 2 p. m. Then ribbons will be cut opening the 145-foot high and nearly a mile long span. They will be cut by Mrs. Green on the Catskill side, and on the Hudson side by Miss Laura Miller, daughter of Clifford L. Miller, chairman of the State Bridge Authority.

A 14 by 18-foot picture of old Rip Van Winkle and his dog has been placed below the bridge on an abutment facing the east shore. It will be flood-lighted at night and will be visible to persons on passing trains

MISS DE LEE ELIGIBLE FOR POST, STATE DECLARES

Syracuse, N. Y., July 2 (AP).—The return of Miss Esther De Lee to the one-room school house at Pompey Hollow today depended entirely upon the militant young teacher and the newly elected trustee of the school district.

The state education department, through Charles A. Brind, Jr., declared Miss De Lee eligible for the post last night and left the matter entirely in the hands of Ward Van De Bogart.

Miss De Lee, attractive 21-year-old brunette, was dismissed last fall by Trustee James Armstrong for alleged disrespect to the American flag. The ouster was sustained by the education department after a prolonged dispute but Armstrong also lost his job.

Van De Bogart succeeded Armstrong as trustee and at the time of his election said he would re-hire Miss De Lee as teacher. He has not since elaborated on the statement and could not be reached for comment. Miss De Lee also has refused to say whether or not she would accept the post.

Roosevelt Loses Second House Vote On Request For His Utilities Measures

Treasury's Deficit For Year $3,575,357,963

Washington, July 2 (AP).—The treasury deficit for the fiscal year ending last Sunday was $3,575,357,963,61.

The figure, covering the second full year of the New Deal administration, compares with a deficit of $3,989,496,035.42 in the previous fiscal period.

It is considerably less than the $4,869,418,338 deficit estimated in the president's budget message to congress last spring.

Receipts during the year totalled $3,800,467,201.96, compared with $3,115,554,049.53 in the previous year. They exceeded budget estimates of $3,711,650,688.

Expenditures in the year established a new peacetime total of $7,375,825,165.57, including $3,654,590,530.81 of "emergency" spending. This compared with $7,105,050,084.95 in the previous fiscal period, which included emergency spending totalling $4,004,135,550.81.

Total expenditures of $8,581,069,026 had been estimated in the president's budget. Of this amount, it was calculated that $5,259,502,852 would be disbursed for recovery and relief.

The gross public debt increased during the year from $27,053,141,414.48 to $28,700,892,624,53 at the close of business June 29. That date this year marked the end of the fiscal year 1935.

House Approves the Bill Which Would Give Securities Commission Discretionary Authority Over Holding Companies.

VOTE ON SUBSTITUTE

Adverse Vote Transfers Fight on Provision to the Conference Committee to be Appointed.

Washington, July 2 (AP)—For the second time, the House today rejected President Roosevelt's request for legislation to outlaw "unnecessary" utility holding companies in seven years.

The roll call vote against the President was 257 to 147, a majority of 110. It lined up against him yesterday 216 to 146, a margin of 70.

It approved the House bill which would give the securities commission discretionary authority over the future of holding companies.

That action transferred the fight over the "death sentence" provision to the conference committee which will be appointed to adjust the differences between the Senate and House bills.

The Senate adopted the provision by the margin of one vote. For it to become law, the House would have to retreat from its position. Yesterday it lined up against the President by 216 to 146.

The vote today was on whether to substitute the House bill for the Senate bill. A vote on final passage then was in order.

Quickly the House voted down a Republican motion to send the measure back to the interstate commerce committee for striking out even the milder House substitute.

Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.), leader in the Senate fight for the "death sentence" clause, received word of the House vote while talking with President Roosevelt at the White House on another subject.

"We will fight it out in conference," the Montanan said. "If we can't get a decent bill out of conference I am in favor of letting it die and going to the country on the issue. This is my personal view. However, I think we can work out a satisfactory bill in conference."

There was no immediate White House comment on the House vote.

Galleries were well filled as a vote neared on whether to approve the House bill which gives the securities commission discretionary authority over holding companies instead of arbitrarily requiring their elimination.

A record vote was expected on this. The count yesterday was by teller vote, in which no record is kept.

Representative Hoeppel (D.-Calif.) said in a statement that works relief funds were being used to whip recalcitrant congressmen into line with the President's views.

"It's the damdest thing I've ever heard of," he added.

He said he had been "interviewed by someone high up" this morning and told that his vote "ought to have been cast the other way."

"It was indicated to me," he said, "that my vote against the President may have some effect on the works relief appropriation for California. * * * I'm opposed to any form of Nazi-ism, or the use of public moneys in the alleviation of human misery as a club on me to control my vote.

"There is a concerted move on foot to intimidate congressmen to support the President in the utility fight and they are using federal funds for relief purposes as the club."

Legislation Passed

Legislation to regulate public utilities was passed today by the House after twice rejecting President Roosevelt's request for a measure to outlaw "unnecessary" holding companies in seven years.

Earlier, the rebellious House voted 257 to 147 for its own bill, which gives the securities commission discretionary authority over the holding companies. That was on a question of substituting it for the Senate measure.

Yesterday it voted 216 to 146 against the Senate provision for mandatory elimination by 1942 of holding companies deemed unnecessary. That passed the Senate by a one-vote margin.

Curtis for Change.

Washington, July 2 (AP).—Charles Curtis, vice president in the Hoover administration, today declared for a change in the Republican national chairmanship. "They are not getting to work soon enough," he said in an interview. "I think there ought to be a new chairman." He did not mention Henry P. Fletcher by name. Fletcher is the present chairman of the party's national committee. He is regarded as the selection of former President Hoover, titular leader of the party. "There are plenty of issues," Curtis said. "The 'save the constitution' proposition is very important. And I think there are too many boards and commissions."

Volckmann Arraigned On A Murder Charge At Greenville Today

Greenville, N. Y., July 2 (AP)—Alfred E. Volckmann, confessed "thrill" slayer of nine-year-old Helen Glenn, was arraigned on a charge of first degree murder soon after dawn today and held to await action of the Greene County grand jury in September.

The arraignment came as a surprise to a village still sleeping soundly, for troopers had intimated it would be postponed until tomorrow because of the dedication of the new bridge over the Hudson river from nearby Catskill to Hudson.

Six troopers in charge of Sergeant J. Walter Wheeler quietly entered the Memorial Hospital at Catskill, where Volckmann has been recovering from the effects of poison, and whisked him away in a car 15 miles to this village where Justice of the Peace Laverne Smith had been instructed to await their arrival.

Justice Smith said Volckmann appeared calm during the proceeding, which took less than 10 minutes, and had no comment.

Volckmann's parents, who had visited him several times in the hospital, were not present at the arraignment.

Immediately after the proceeding, the troopers left with Volckmann for the Greene County jail at Catskill.

Volckmann had been in the Catskill Hospital since Saturday recovering from the effects of poison taken, he told state police, after he attacked and stabbed little Helen on Thursday.

A heavy guard had been maintained at his bedside.

Volckmann, in his "full and detailed confession of the crime," to District Attorney John Welsh and Lieut. Garry Sager of the state police, said he lured the minister's daughter into his father's butcher shop with a lollypop, tied her to a bed in living quarters above and mistreated her.

When she fainted, the confession went on, the violin playing young man left her, returning an hour later to place her unconscious form in his automobile and drive to a secluded spot on Basic creek, near here.

There he plunged a knife almost through her body, pounding it with his hand.

Troopers explained the early arraignment was held to avoid the crowd expected in the vicinity later in the day for the bridge opening.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, July 2 (AP)—The position of the treasury on June 29 was: Receipts $40,001,129,52; expenditures $144,341,138.31, net balance $1,841,345,539.47. Customs receipts for the month, $28,176,713.63. Receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1), $2,800,467,291.96; expenditures $7,375,825,165.57 (including $2,654,590,530.81 of emergency expenditures). Excess of expenditures $3,575,357,963.61. Gross debt $28,700,892,624.53, an increase of $3,240,862,000 over the previous day. Gold assets $9,115,386,809.40.

1,000 Stevedores Strike

San Francisco, July 2 (AP)—Ted Star, president of the bargemen's union, announced that 1,000 stevedores and bargemen working on San Francisco Bay and Sacramento vessels went on strike today. The strike, Star said, was not officially called by the union but that the men quit work by "mutual agreement." Affected areas were San Francisco, Stockton, Sacramento and intermediate points. The walkout began immediately following completion of midnight passenger steamer runs.

Testimonial Picnic To Will S. Elwyn

Woodstock, July 1 —Over a hundred people attended a basket picnic held Friday evening in honor of Will S. Elwyn, retiring postmaster of the Woodstock office. The Rev. Harvey I. Todd and Dr. James T. Shotwell were speakers at this occasion, a tribute to Mr. Elwyn, who for 20 years held this position.

As the neighbors and friends arrived each was greeted cordially by Mr. Elwyn and his family, who were gathered in front of his home, the scene of the picnic. The evening was warm and clear, so lunch baskets were opened and family picnic parties were spread on the lawn.

After the picnickers had packed up their baskets the Rev. Harvey I Todd called everyone to gather around the porch where he made a brief introduction to Dr. Shotwell's address which followed.

Dr. Shotwell began his address by comparing the occasion to an academic commencement. This function, he said, was held at the end of a trial or test period, that of Mr. Elwyn's 20 years of service. This gathering on the "campus of Elwyn College' he said, was only the beginning of a new period in Mr. Elwyn's life.

Here Dr. Shotwell gave a short but interesting outline of postal history from Persian Post Riders through the first "penny postage" or fixed postal system instituted in this country about 100 years ago, which was the origin of Mr. Elwyn's "great vocation," through the era of old "Eddie" the horse, who carried mail safely from post to post in Woodstock and last of all down to the retirement of Mr. Elwyn, who, in taking charge of this work is "worthy of graduation at the head of the class." He spoke of Mr. Elwyn's intended work on permanent memorials in Woodstock and in relation to Mr. Elwyn's efforts toward a new school commended his "capacity to see a thing through."

Some day, Dr Shotwell said, there will be real graduations from a new Woodstock school.

Dr. Shotwell expressed a wish that the Woodstock Historical Society would make a study of a different Woodstock occupation of interest each year; for example, the post office one year, ceramics another and so on.

In closing Dr Shotwell presented Mr. Elwyn with a testimonial signed by nearly 400 of his friends and neighbors. The guests at this occasion, who had not already had an opportunity to sign it were invited to do so

The words of the testimonial were.

"We, your friends and fellow citizens of the Town of Woodstock, wish to express to you our appreciation of the services you have rendered us and to all others who have had the privilege of dealing with you while you were our postmaster. It has been a real pleasure for us to meet you day by day in that capacity and to receive from you such splendid service, which has ever been characterized by your readiness to go much further than the second mile for our benefit and help. Murray Has Pigeons As Personal Hobby

District Attorney Cleon B. Murray arrived at his office in the court house this morning bearing a cage in which were four pigeons. Employes at the court house believed at first they were to be treated to squab but later learned this was an error. Last week Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schirick sent down a huge assortment of fish from a fishing trip on the St. Lawrence and the court house employes believed the district attorney was trying to outdo the judge with delicacies.

The pigeons were homing pigeons, which Mr. Murray has been rearing at his home, Knoll Acres, in Ellenville. Few people suspected that Mr. Murray was a pigeon fancier until he suddenly appeared this morning with four trained carrier pigeons The birds were released at the court house and after circling for a moment headed directly back toward Ellenville.

Asked whether these birds were to be used for personal message delivery or whether for official business of the district attorney's office, he stated that the pigeons were merely a hobby It was suggested that in case of necessity they might be pressed in use to convey secret and valuable messages for the office.

Mr. Murray explained that the birds had been presented him some time ago and had been undergoing training at Knoll Acres The experiment today was made to determine how long it would take the birds to cover the 28 miles to Ellenville. It was 10:15 o'clock when they were set free in Kingston.

Canadians apparently believe in "saying it with flowers". The value of cut flowers sold in the Dominion during the year ended May 31, 1934, represented 62 per cent of the total of the various categories of floricultural and decorative plants. Reports from most of the leading growers indicate that the cut flower industry exceeded all other classes put together, both in volume and in value.

Vicious Murder Tale Given By Companions

away," McCrea quoted her as saying, "who seemed to be strangling on a glass of whisky. Flo (Florence) looked over, said something and smiled when she saw Dickinson looking at her. He picked up his napkin, wiped his mouth and came over to our table. He said: 'Pardon me but could I buy you a round of drinks'."

Her statement, said McCrea, paralleled her sister's in essential details. She told of the conference between Ferris and the sisters and how "we decided we were going to kill him."

"Flo and myself, a little later, talked about rolling him," she said to McCrea. "But Bill said 'No. I'll kill him. Then he won't be able to talk. Dead men tell no tales.' He made us agree. When I told him I was afraid to shoot him, Bill said: 'You'll get caught quicker if we don't'."

Bought a Radio

Loretta told McCrea that Ferris bought a short wave radio in Chicago to find out if the police were looking for him. But before the radio brought him any news, she explained, they discovered in Chicago newspapers that Ferris had been named in the murder.

McCrea said he wanted to clear up the point about whether the Miller girl was actually in on the killing plan. Early today when questioned again, she denied she knew Dickinson was to be killed.

"Everything is right in Ferris's confession," she told the prosecutor, "except that part about the gun. I was willing to go with him, but not willing to shoot anybody. No one every told me a gun would be there.

"I remember Bill saying before we started out: 'If we're lucky and get at least a $1,000 we'll get a tent and put on our own show. You girls have been trying to break into the show game."

She explained how stewardship means care and proper use of our money, our time and our energy. She told of many great men who have definitely tithed their income, giving a tenth to the Lord If every one in our churches did that, she pointed out, no suppers and benefits would be necessary except for social purposes, nor would there be church debts. The date of payment of taxes has been extended until the first of September. Until that date taxes may be paid with the additional 5 per cent to the county treasurer at Kingston. The usual interest charged for overdue taxes has been waived by the state until that date. Also people who have not paid their taxes and wish to do so may have the amount by calling the local tax collector instead of writing to the county treasurer and waiting for a reply. The total amount can then be sent to the county treasurer's office in Kingston.

July Poultry Pointers From Farm Bureau

The Farm Bureau makes the following suggestions for poultrymen to follow during the month of July Hot weather and the completion of a laying year for most birds, make the summer a critical time for poultrymen.

First: Start culling the laying flock. Get the old hens and the poor producers out of the flock just as soon as they stop laying. By doing this, the feed bill is cut down, while the total production should not decrease materially.

Second: Collect the eggs at least twice a day. Keep the eggs in a cool place, but don't keep them too long. Market the eggs at least twice a week. Egg quality goes down quickly in hot weather.

Third: Prevent crowding the pullets, by building cheap wire range shelters to use with the brooder houses and the brood coops.

Fourth: Keep the hens and growing chickens free from lice and use a good insecticide in the houses and brood coops. Lice multiply fast at this time of the year. If they are not kept in control. They can give poultry a lot of trouble; and whatever troubles the poultry flock means trouble or loss to the poultry owner. Any radical change or upset is likely to cause birds to molt. General care should be exercised.

The Farm Bureau will be pleased to answer inquiries in regard to any problems.

Boston Yachtsman, 2 Sons Lost at Sea During U. S. to Norway Race

Sydney, N. S., July 2 (AP).—Three survivors of an Atlantic gale that cost the lives of their companions—a Boston yachtsman and his two sons who sought to save him—took refuge in port today, still suffering from their experiences.

Their 54-foot ketch Hamrah, her rigging and sails damaged, rode safely off the Royal Cape Breton Yacht Club, but her 21-year-old navigator, Charles Tillinghast of Providence, R. I., said it might be several days before they could put to sea again.

Tillinghast and his two companions, Roger Weed, 25, and Sheldon Ware, 19, both of Boston, brought their crippled craft into Sydney harbor yesterday and reported that Robert Ames, 55, Boston realty broker and sportsman, had been washed overboard by a mountainous wave. His sons, Richard, 23, and Harry, 20, were lost in a vain attempt to rescue him

The Hamrah, one of seven yachts that left Newport, R I, June 8, in a transatlantic race to Bergen, Norway, was about 600 miles east of Newfoundland when she encountered a northeast gale on June 19.

Heavy seas almost swamped the little craft, the youthful yachtsmen said, and a huge wave swept Ames, the owner, off the deck.

"His eldest son, Richard, a strong swimmer, went to his father's rescue after the yacht had been swung back," said Weed, and had come up close to where the owner of the vessel was seen floundering in the water.

"But a line he was carrying in his hand fell from his grasp so we threw over a life preserver to the elder Ames which he managed to secure and was thus able to keep afloat.

"A small tender kept on deck for emergencies was unlashed and lowered into the sea by the younger Ames, Harry, who vigorously rowed to where his father and brother were.

"Meanwhile the terrific onslaught of the gale provided difficulties for the rest of us On the second jibe the boom broke and the gaff jaws parted The mizzen had to be hoisted then

"While we worked to repair the damaged rigging the ketch was blown away from the three struggling yachtsmen, but we managed to steer to within 50 yards of them before further trouble was experienced."

Weed said the damaged boom wrecked their main rigging and that they were forced to cut away the mainsail By the time they headed back toward the three men, however, they no longer could be seen

For hours the survivors searched the storm-lashed sea, but when darkness set in, they said they knew there was no hope for their shipmates.

"Sweating" of Glass

Glass is not porous to any appreciable extent and the "sweat" does not come from the inside of the glass vessel or pipe The water vapor contained in the air condenses when it comes in contact with the cooler pipe or other vessel The observation that pipes and walls tend to sweat more in warm weather is explained by the fact that warm air can absorb much more moisture than cold air. When this air is cooled by contact with cold water pipes, it cannot retain all the moisture held in suspension, and some is deposited.

State Making It Tough for Schultz

Albany, N. Y., July 2 (AP).—New York state heaped a few more coals on the already troubled head of "Dutch" Schultz today, demanding that the quondam Bronx beer baron pay $36,927 income tax for the years 1929, 1930 and 1931.

The demand came as the government mapped final plans to once more try the stocky mobster on charges of evading payment of $92,000 in federal income taxes. Both the state and the government claim that Schultz, officially Arthur Flegenheimer, neglected to pay any tax on the fortune he allegedly reaped during the lush years of the prohibition era. Rookie To Soldier Now Takes 2 Weeks

Fort Knox, Ky., July 2 (AP).—Even though you didn't raise your boy to be a soldier, the United States Army can make him one in two weeks.

The process was explained by Maj. Willis D. Crittenberger, commander of a training regiment here, who pointed to fleet armored cars and swift combat machines of the First Cavalry, mechanized, as indicating the faster tempo of army life.

A new group of rookies went into training today, after the first squad of an increased enrollment recently authorized by Congress was assigned to regular duty.

The new policy of turning rookies into soldiers in two weeks, rather than the traditional three months' period, Major Crittenberger said, is based on the theory that "we wouldn't have more than two weeks to train recruits in an emergency."

Taking Down the Old Sycamore Tree

The large old sycamore or "button ball" tree that stands near the entrance to the county building on Crown street is being taken down today, the work being done by Cliff Moore and Hank Cragin. The old tree is a big one, at least three feet through near the ground and stands high with a wide spread of branches. It is but a shell, however, at the base and with the roots cut off on both the street and sidewalk sides, it has been a source of apprehension for some time. The falling of even one of the large limbs on to the county building, or the Leader office opposite, would cause a good deal of damage. The work of taking it down was not easy, as in addition to the labor and personal risk involved there was the danger of breaking down numerous electric light and telephone wires at that point, or letting one of the heavy limbs crash into the nearby building.

Twenty-four persons were injured, none of them seriously, and were taken to hospitals. Many others, including several women and children, received medical treatment at the scene.

A span of the old wooden structure 40 feet above the ravine gave way as members of the East York Workers Association started over it after a picnic and wrestling matches in the nearby park.

Many persons saved themselves from the fall by grasping a railing and swinging themselves to safety, dropping only a few feet near the edge of the ravine, 75 feet below the bridge at its deepest point. The bridge was unlighted.

The Postage Stamp

The postage stamp is a little thing, that's fastened on with glue;
'Tis not the picture on its face, that doth appeal to you,
Nor yet some strange and quaint design, that holds its value true.
But the thing that makes it really count, be it purple, red or blue,
Is the glue that's smeared upon its back, to make it carry through.

It is frequently declared it is our best friends who do us out of our money, but this is not always true. Frequently we won't give them a chance to flim-flam us. We reserve that privilege for strangers.

Percy—Miss Hopskip! Bessie! Will you be my wife?

Bessie—Why, you asked me that last week and I said yes.

Percy—But I thought possibly you might have changed your mind.

"What is the future going to hold for us?" inquires one politician.

Probably the bag.

Wife—Do you think I can make the toast myself while you are away on your vacation?

Husband—Well, you'll have to scrape along the best you can until I get back, darling.

Your problem for today will be solved today. . . You have every assurance of this. . . Approach it with a light and happy heart. . . The solution comes with the problem, and if you look for it you will find it.

Librarian—Sir, we are about to close for the day, is there anything you would like to take out?

Man—Why, yes. How about the brunette in the red dress?

Speaking of holding companies—What about the U. S. Treasury.

Bill—What is the motive of the Russian piece they are playing?

Joe—It sounds like revenge to me.

Dark skies must clear, and when the clouds are past,
One golden day redeems a weary
year;
Patient I listen, sure that sweet at last
Will sound his voice of cheer.

Applicant—I've come to take the examination for a detective.

Examiner—All right. Let's see you look baffled.

One way to empty the prisons would be to charge the prisoners for board and lodging.

Partner—But why did you engage that man as cashier? He squints, has enormous ears, and a big, outstanding nose, and a mammoth mouth!

Manager—I know, but he will be so easy to identify if he ever absconds.

If you're lucky you can trade a $500 piano in for $25 on a $50 radio.

Mistress—Mandy, I've heard about your hard luck. I'm terribly sorry.

Mandy—Deed, Ma'am. Ah ain't had no hard luck.

Mistress—But, your husband; wasn't he killed in an accident today?

Mandy—Yes, ma'am; but dat's his hard luck, not mine.

A boy usually asks for just about five times as much leeway as he expects to get.

Albert—Yes, the bullet struck my head, went careening into space, and —

Friend—How terrible! Did they get it out?

Judge (to prisoner about to give evidence on his own behalf is sworn)—Have you a lawyer to represent you?

Prisoner—No, sir. I am going to speak the truth.

Success is the progressive realization of a worthy ideal. Whatever success men attain is achieved by consciously or unconsciously obeying natural laws.

FLASHES OF LIFE SKETCHED IN BRIEF

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Service Entrance—In Rear

Collingswood, N. J.—Mrs. Mary Pisark vows she'll pay more attention to geography the next time she sells liquor.

The kitchen of her home is in adjoining Woodlynne and authorities there have shown no disposition to interfere with her liquor business.

But one day she sold some drinks in the parlor and that was a mistake because the parlor is in Collingswood and Collingswood is dry.

So Judge Frank Neutze sentenced her to 30 days in jail.

"I just got mixed up," she explained.

Close Call

Pittsboro, N. C.—Charles Horton, gasoline truck driver, almost shook hands with death, but not quite.

While unloading gasoline at a filling station, a cigarette was tossed near his truck and the fuel began to burn. Horton jumped on the truck and drove the machine two blocks away where it could burn or explode without injury to anyone—except perhaps Horton.

Just as he alighted, an explosion ripped the front seams of the tank, spraying burning gasoline in all directions. Horton wasn't even touched.

Events Around The Empire State

Fishkill, N. Y., July 2 (AP).—State police continued their search today for nine-year-old Robert Pierson, of Hartford, Conn., who disappeared from Fishkill Plains summer resort. He was last seen at 4:30 p. m., yesterday, when he was wading in the shallow part of Hillside Lake. The troopers dragged the lake last night and tracked over the hills with bloodhounds in a futile effort to locate him.

Washington, July 2 (AP).—New York state has been granted $12,000,000 to carry on relief activities during July. This is part of $88,174,139 in allotments to seven states announced yesterday by Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator.

Damariscotta, Me., July 2 (AP).—Mrs. Anna G. Lovely, 35, of Valley Stream, N. Y., a nurse, committed suicide yesterday drinking poison at the home of Dr. Percy Bryan, where she had been a house-guest for two months, Dr. Joseph E. Odirone, of Whitefield, a medical examiner, said.

Rochester, N. Y., July 2 (AP).—Members of the Coast Guard dragged the lower Genesee river today for the body of Howard Banker, 15, who drowned yesterday when he fell from an improvised raft while playing with two companions.

The other boys, Douglas Labar, 17, and his brother, Nelson, 11, neither of whom could swim, watched helplessly as Banker struggled in the river to reach the raft. The swift current carried him from his reach and he sank.

Albany, N. Y., July 2 (AP).—As the result of a request by Governor Herbert H. Lehman state employes who are members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars are to be permitted to attend the annual state convention of that group at Saratoga Springs, July 3-6, without loss of time or compensation.

Washington, July 2 (AP).—Post offices in Schenectady, Warsaw, Saugerties, Massena, Catskill, Liberty and Hudson Falls are affected by a default order against the Murch Brothers Construction Company of St. Louis and Washington, issued yesterday by the Treasury Department. The Treasury Department said that the work will be completed by another contractor.

Albany, N. Y., July 2 (AP).—Former Governor Alfred E. Smith and Charles A. Upson of Lockport were reappointed trustees of the State College of Forestry yesterday by Governor Herbert H. Lehman.

New York, July 2 (AP).—Alfred H. Schoellkopf, chairman of the state temporary relief administration, predicts there will be 200,000 New York state families that cannot be absorbed by the federal works plan and will have to be cared for by the state.

"It will be one of the most important functions of the home relief program to comb and re-comb the lists of defendants for those eligible for jobs in private industry," he said last night.

Election Law Facts To Be Distributed

Following preparation by Colonel Lafayette B. Gleason, political ace and Secretary of the Republican State Committee; Republican State Chairman Eaton will today distribute to the sixty-two county chairmen in the state a memorandum having to do with the application of the revised election laws to upstate counties. A few of the high spots from the memorandum, having to do with important dates in the political calendar, follow:

July 2nd is the first day for signing petitions for public office and July 30th is the last day for county chairmen to notify Board of Elections of party positions to be filled.

August 6th to August 13th are the dates for filing designating petitions; August 16th is the last day to decline designation, and August 20th is the last day to fill vacancy after declination.

September 25th is the first day for holding Judicial Conventions, and October 1st is the last day. Justices of the Supreme Court will be elected in all judicial districts in the state except the 6th and 7th districts.

October 1st to October 8th are the dates for filing independent nominations; October 11th the last day for filing declinations and October 14th the last day for filing new nominations.

Central registrations can be made at Boards of Elections in cities, counties and villages with more than 50,000 inhabitants from July 1st to August 31st. In cities, counties and villages of less than 50,000 from August 1st to August 31st.

Members of the Civilian Conservation Corps may register at Boards of Election in which their camp is located, and the County Board will farward data to the Election Board in the county in which registrant ordinarily lives. Registrants must vote in the county of their home address. September 26th is the last day for this registration.

Registration days upstate for personal registration in villages over 5,000, October 11th, 12th, 18th and 19th. In villages less than 5,000 the board will sit October 12th and October 19th.

Primary Petitions.—The changes in the laws governing primary elections at the last session which are of interest to upstate counties follow:

To designate candidates, petitions must contain five per cent of the enrolled voters of party in political sub-division, but need not exceed the number mentioned below, namely:

One thousand signatures for any office to be filled by the voters of any other city of the first class—outside New York city—or for any other county or borough outside the Greater City containing more than 250,000 inhabitants.

Five hundred signatures for any office to be filled by all the voters of any other county or borough outside of New York city containing more than 25,000 and not more than 250,000 inhabitants of any city of the second class or any other Congressional or Senatorial District.

Two hundred and fifty signatures for any office to be filled by all the voters of any other county or any other city of the third class or any Assembly District outside of Greater New York.

All designating petitions shall be numbered consecutively beginning with No. 1 at the foot of the page. The legislature amended the law so as to make Fusion tickets more difficult by providing that if a voter participated in and voted at a primary election where his candidate was nominated for an office for which such petition purports to designate the same candidate, the signature shall not be counted.

TRUCK FACT No. 2

PROOF why a GMC will out-perform and out-earn

Regardless of what your hauling needs may be, whether your loads be 1½ ton or 22 tons, it will pay you to see, inspect and compare GMC trucks or trucks-with-trailers.... Comparison with other trucks will disclose such typical value facts as this one: It costs the General Motors Truck Company more, for instance, to equip the quality 1½-2 ton T-16 with drop-forged wheels but they are 2 to 3 times stronger. Furthermore, the rims are part of the wheels—consequently tires are always in perfect alignment, with the result that their life is greatly lengthened.... Ask to hear all the important GMC value facts before you buy any truck.

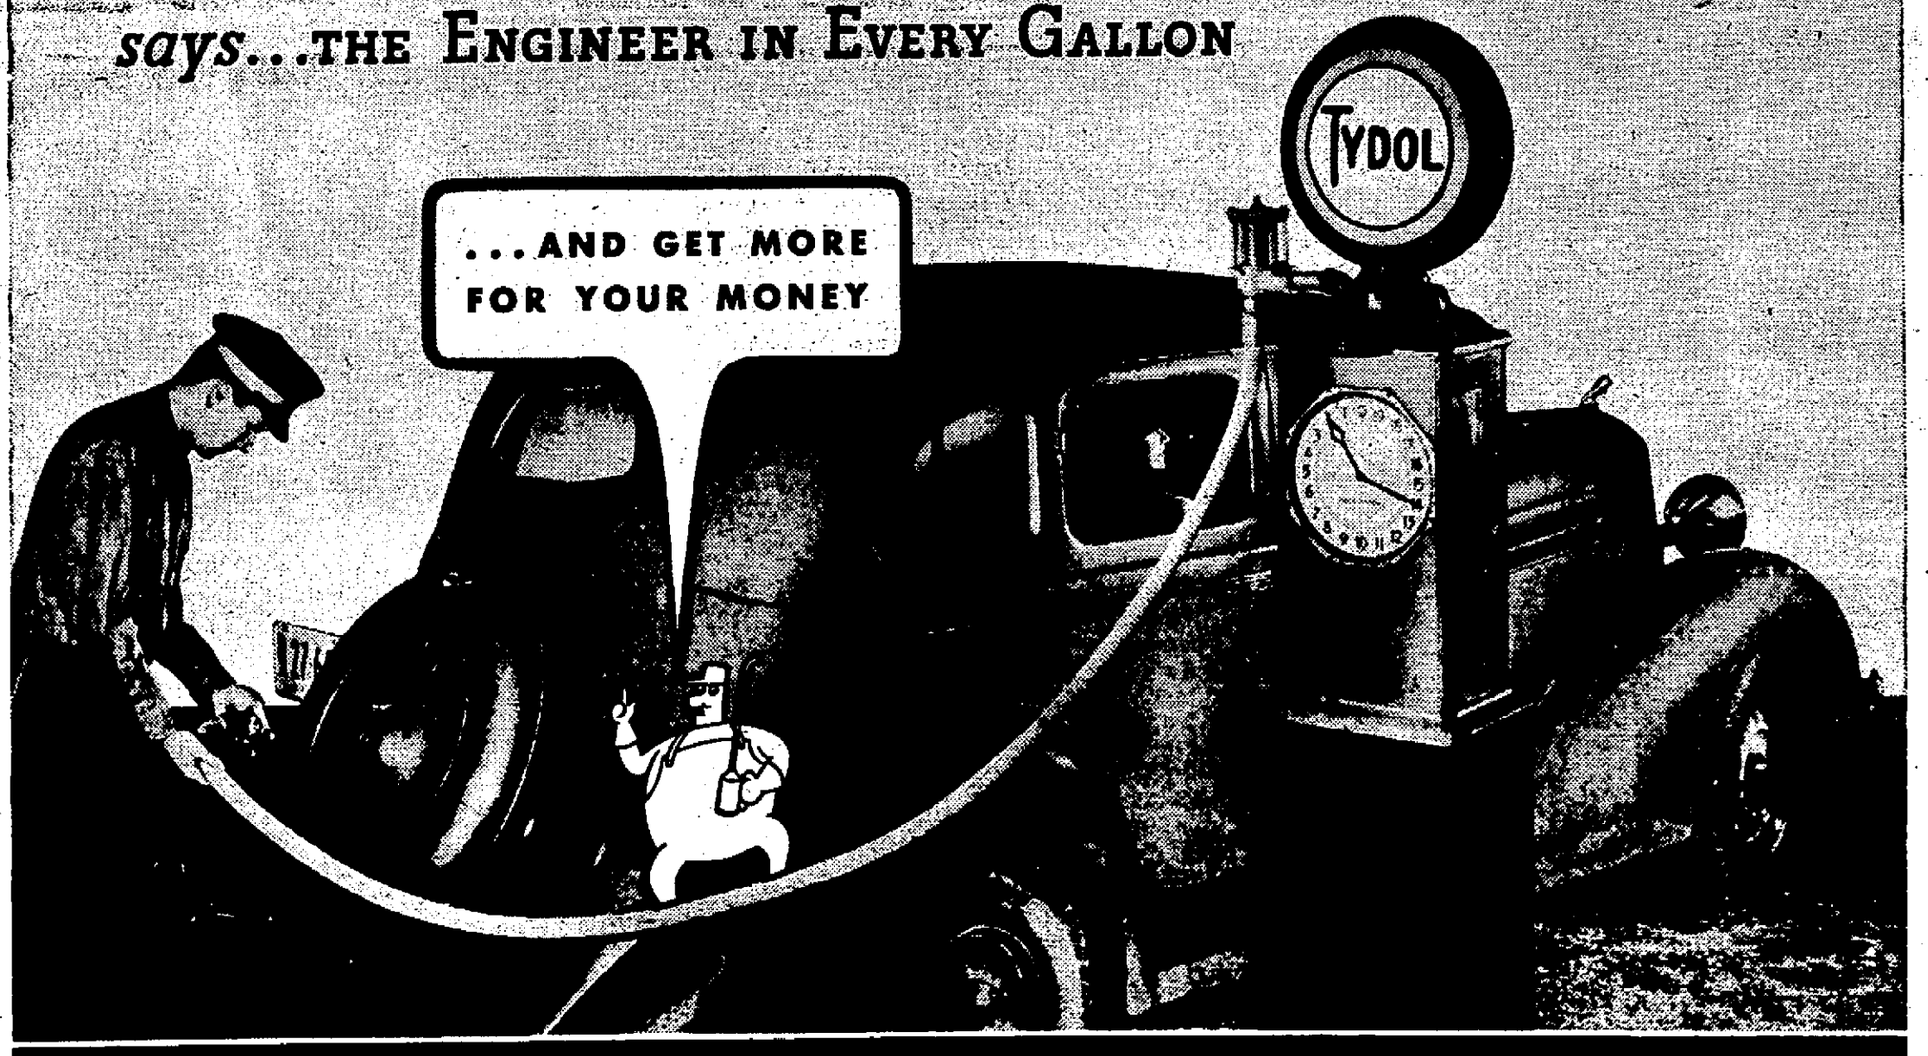
"Pack your tank with extra miles"

says...THE ENGINEER IN EVERY GALLON



BOTH TYDOL AND TYDOL-ETHYL GASOLINES CONTAIN TOP-CYLINDER OIL

CAR OWNERS who buy Tydol Gasoline over the holiday will have just cause for celebration. They will discover that "the engineer in every gallon" represents the biggest improvement that has been made in gasoline in a long, long time... an improvement that means extra miles in your gas tank, extra power in your motor, extra money in your purse. For "the engineer" stands for the fact that Tydol is a lubricating gasoline. Blended into every gallon of this new-type motor fuel, is a super top-cylinder oil and an active carbon-solvent. This extra lubricant does plenty to make your motor run better. It keeps valves from sticking. It reduces carbon. It safeguards upper-cylinder walls and pistons from wearing heat and friction. In fact, it does as much to tune up your motor's performance as though there were "an engineer in every gallon." Stop at the Tydol pump and pack your tank with extra miles. Get this extra-duty motor fuel at no extra cost.

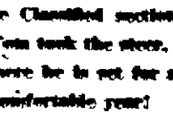
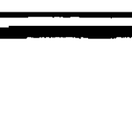
This is the STORY of Thomas McBlu

Whose lease just expired the first of July.

These are his shoes (just picture his feet)
The result of six weeks of pounding the street.



Hunting a home at six hundred a year.
Here's what he found—and isn't it queer?



He almost bought this in sheer desperation.
It really belongs on a Sioux reservation.

Poor Thomas just didn't know which way to turn
Till a friend told him "Tom, there are values to burn
In the Classified section!" So Tom took the steer.
And here he is set for a comfortable year!

A Smart Addition to Your Wardrobe

PATTERN 5391

The contrasting jacket is the thing this summer. You'll enjoy this one for it's done in a simple all-over stitch that gives the jacket a soft texture. The Eton collar—the saddle shoulders—the straight bands that finish it—all are flattering features. And who of us doesn't always look for just that? You can do the jacket in string or yarn—in the latter it will give you no end of service for fall and, with a plain, crocheted skirt available in another pattern 5353, will make a striking ensemble!

In pattern 5391 you will find complete instructions for making the jacket shown in sizes 16-18 and 38-40; an illustration of it and of the stitches needed; material requirements. Price 10 cents.

In pattern 5353 you will find complete instructions for making the skirt shown in sizes 16-18 and 38-40; an illustration of it and of the stitches needed; material requirements. Price 10 cents.

To obtain these patterns send 10 cents each (20 cents for both) in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to the Kingston Daily Freeman Household Arts Dept., 259 W. 14th street, New York, N. Y.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS and SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—So Gaspard, the French peasant, stabbed the haughty marquis, plunged the knife to its hilt into his breast . . . the scene was done, and Fritz Leiber, famous in Shakespeare, had made his return to the screen.

It was in 1919-20 that Leiber, then 17, made his first screen appearances; the role he remembers best being that of Solomon in the old spectacle, "The Queen of Sheba," with Betty Blythe in the title role. But he did not like pictures then, he had been a Shakespearean actor since he was 15, and he preferred to return to his classic stage.

'Road' Not Profitable

Now, because talking pictures have become such a force in the entertainment world, because the "road" of which he has been an ardent champion no longer allowed him to do much more than break even, and because Hollywood is becoming Shakespeare-minded, Leiber has returned to pictures. His role of Gaspard in "A Tale of Two Cities" has been enlarged from Dickens' original, so that Leiber will be seen throughout the story.

The picture is being made at Metro, where stars like Joan Crawford, Clark Gable, Garbo, Robert Montgomery et al, have dressing room suites that are the last word in comfort and decorative refinement. One finds Fritz Leiber, the distinguished Fritz Leiber, in a two-by-four cage that boasts a make-up table, a clothes rack, and two straight chairs. This is the customary accommodation for visiting non-contract artists, of course, but the irony of contrast calls for comment.

Wants Film 'Macbeth'

"Oh, this?" smiles Leiber, a genial, kindly host. "I hadn't thought of it. Dressing-rooms, after all, aren't important. In this nothing counts except what is on the screen. The important thing is that a character one is doing for the picture is done well, and that is all I am thinking about. I have no delusions of grandeur whatsoever—I know that 90 per cent of the people here, if asked who I am or what I've done, would not know. Why should they?"

In pictures he would like to do "Macbeth" or "King Lear" or any of the older Shakespearean characters to which his 52 years would lend rather than hinder credence "Macbeth," especially, he visualizes as a potent screen "mystery melodrama"—a picture that would prove for once and all, he says, that Shakespeare, for all that he is classic, was a playwright who wrote for the entertainment of the common people, not for a select group of so-called intellectuals.

ATTRACTIONS — At The Theatres — PREVIEWED

Today

Broadway: "Les Miserables". Victor Hugo's classic of human suffering and human frailty becomes motion picture greatness in this universally known story of Jean Valjean, the Frenchman who spends a lifetime fighting a law that seeks him relentlessly through the France of 70 years ago. The story is known to everyone for it has become one of the most popular novels ever written, and the screen play, a United Artists release, is overpowering in its realism, its careful treatment and its force. Nothing has been spared in settings, direction or expense to make this drama an outstanding achievement. It tells the story of Jean Valjean as the most discriminating would want it transcribed to the screen, with all its beauty, its horror, its bitterness and its suffering. Some of the scenes are filled with terror, some are matchless in their beauty. And through it all, the magnetic acting of two men, Fredric March and Charles Laughton, stand out above all else in this really great motion picture. March, as Valjean the criminal, Laughton as Javert the law, pursue a never ending game of hide and seek through the action of the entire play. Although Fredric March gives his finest performance, he is outshadowed by the startlingly realistic performance of Charles Laughton. The play was directed by Richard Boleslawski and the cast includes John Beal, Rochelle Hudson, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Francis Drake, Jane Kerr, Florence Roberts, Ian McLaren and Ferdinand Gottschalk. Don't miss.

Orpheum: "The Wedding Night." Anna Sten has her best opportunity to prove her ability as an actress in this tragic story of the love between a young Polish girl and an American novelist. Although the ending is sorrowful, the play has much to recommend it to adult audiences. The acting is exceptionally fine, the photography is flawless and the work of Gary Cooper and Helen Vinson is also above average.

Kingston: "Oil for the Lamps of China." The employe of an American oil concern in China is an idealistic sort of fellow, who believes that his job should become before home, wife or friends. It is his firm belief that his company will take care of him for faithful service, and because of this attitude, strange things happen in Chica The acting is superb, probably the finest part of the show, and there is a normal amount of action and intensity. The novel from which this play was adapted was more interested in exploitation than the screen play appears to be, but the novelty of the plot, the arresting cinematic effects and the general air of realness all help to make this interesting entertainment. Pat O'Brien, Josephine Hutchinson, Lyle Talbot, Jean Muir and Arthur Byron head the cast.

Tomorrow

Broadway: "The Age of Indiscretion." Paul Lukas as the husband chained down by a luxury loving wife, Madge Evans as the understanding part of an inevitable triangle, and a fine cast which also includes Helen Vinson, May Robson, David Jack Holt and Ralph Forbes all fit nicely into this drama of domestic unrest and help turn an ordinary plot structure into an enjoyable bit of entertainment.

Orpheum: "Rendezvous at Midnight." Thrills, mystery and a general atmosphere of uncertainty are high lights of the thriller on display at the Orpheum. It moves swiftly and with gusto through a maze of strange events. Ralph Bellamy heads the cast.

Kingston: "The People's Enemy" and "The Daring Young Man." The first concerns a racketeer who is sent to the big house for income tax evasion. While in stir, he learns that his wife is being seen with his lawyer. This makes him both sad and mad. Consequently we have a jail break and some shooting. Preston Foster, Melvyn Douglas and Lila Lee are featured. "The Daring Young Man" is grand comedy, one of the best of the current laugh producers. It's about a boy and girl, both reporters on rival newspapers, and the show is one long round of excitement and fun. James Dunn, Mae Clarke, Jack LaRue and Sidney Toler head the cast.

Gift Bead Jabots

London (AP)—Jabots are not always of organdie or lace. The silver and gilt bead variety is modernistic and combines the role of dress jewelry with that of a jabot.

Unique Machine At Service Station

Work was completed this week on the Washington avenue service station of the A. R. Newcombe Oil Co., to make room for the first permanent installation here of the Power Prover—the unique "motor doctor" which has been used by seven state highway commissions to test automobile exhausts for poisonous monoxide gas. The improvement, which was designated and built entirely by local labor, also included a large indoor lubritorium for servicing cars in winter and in wet weather.

The new "auto clinic" has a maze of delicate apparatus for testing motors, and can register how much gasolene a car is wasting in half a minute. Operators of the device explained that gasolene waste and carbon monoxide discharge together—the more waste, the more deadly fumes. The set up also includes companion tools developed by the Cities Service Oil Company for correcting the troubles exposed by the Power Prover tests.

L. H. Doty, general manager of the company, said that the opening of the new permanent service was rushed along so that it would be in full working routine for August—when the National Safety Campaign to stop deaths from carbon monoxide gas gets under way. "Although our other stations periodically have the benefit of the Power Prover through portable machines mounted on specially built trucks," he explained, "the permanent installation will be more suitable for the purposes of the drive.

The best showing of the Cornell crews since 1920, an unusually fine track team, an intercollegiate championship in soccer, and a splendid tennis team featured the athletic activities of seventeen Cornell teams which participated in 160 dual contests during the academic year 1934-35 which closed on June 30.

First French Fall Fashions Make Their Debut In Silk

BEFORE even the Parisians see the fall collections, American women will have had an opportunity to preview the latest models from the French couture through an exhibit of fall fashions which was brought to New York on the maiden voyage of the Normandie and recently shown for the first time by the International Silk Guild at a fashion gala in the Gardens of the Nations, Rockefeller Center.

Inspired by the glorious new fabrics, an important and representative group of Paris designers created a new fall collection in pure silk. New York accorded it a tremendous welcome. This exhibit set a new precedent by being flown in its entirety to the Pacific coast where it was shown at a famous store to Hollywood designers, fashion representatives and the public.

During the week of the national convention of the American Home Economics Association it was shown in Chicago at one of the largest retail establishments in the world.

Seen In America First

Coming as it does even before the French dressmakers launch their complete fall collections in August, this collection gives American women an opportunity to form an idea of the general fashion picture for fall.

Among the outstanding couturiers whose models are included in this record-making exhibit are Chanel, Mainbocher, Louiseboulanger, Robert Piguet, Martial et Armand, Bruyere, Heim, Dilkusha, Ardanse, Creed, Anny Blatt, Rosevienne and Kotchoubey.

Their choice of pure silk as the leading fall fabric is significant. For years the tradition of beautiful silks has been closely allied with the history of the French couture, and today both American and French interests are working to further an appreciation of fine fabrics and of quality that is more than surface-deep.

The emphasis on pure silks in the French couture collection shown during the week of the Home Economics Association convention in Chicago should encourage you to look for greater serviceability and new beauty in your first fall costumes by selecting the new silk weaves.

New Mat Silk Sheers

Watch for the new pure silk sheers, with smooth mat surfaces, or else rough finishes, which are featured in this French couture exhibit. They have a lovely heavy drape ideal for the fluid lines of the new gowns. The new rough silk cantons show much surface interest. Both silk sheers and silk cantons are shown in fall suits, often with fur trimming. The always-popular silk satin is used either in smooth weaves or in textures with rough or crinkled finishes. Heavy silk taffetas that "stand alone" are used, in plain weaves for evening gowns, and in faconne effects for day time suits. Candy-striped silk taffeta is used for a blouse attached to a slim petticoat, and worn with a silk satin suit. Silk chiffon retains its importance.

In general the silhouette for fall appears to be simple and wearable, with modified skirt fulness, much of it concentrated in flattering fashion below the knee.

"Clothes In Action"

The new fall clothes are designed to beautify the feminine figure in motion. The showing at the New York premier stressed this "clothes in action" theme. A night wind blowing through the Gardens of the Nations, planted high above New York's street of fashion, whipped the gowns into graceful movement, animating the costumes and accenting the beauty of line, textures and colors of the silks. The difference between static clothes, fitted on a department store "dummy," and "clothes in action," proves that every woman should see herself in movement before her mirror rather than approve her purchase or her fittings while standing still.

The Renaissance Influence

The new fall trend toward the Italian Renaissance influence is strikingly illustrated by several models. Vivid clear reds, deep purples, olive and hunter greens and warm browns, rich colors are important. Bell sleeves, boat necklines, girdled waists, long flowing lines, interpret the Renaissance theme. Twists of silk velvet trim halo hats.

The Roman influence both for evening and afternoon wear is developed in flowing draperies. Trains and skirts are split so that they can be worn toga-wise.

Three piece silk suits with loose jackets and pleated skirts, with contrasting blouses, are slated for daytime importance. Several suits have hats of self fabric trimmed with ostrich plumes. Pleats and gores are shown both for day and night wear.

The 1910 spirit appears in the slightly nipped-in waistlines. Silk moire and rough silk cantons are used in brimmed hats the color of the afternoon gowns.

For evening you will be either slender and sophisticated, in soft supple silks, or picturesque in crisp or billowing silks that feature fulness below the knees instead of from the waistline.

Trousers For Evening

A sheer silk trouser slip for evening was worn under a matching sheer silk evening gown.

A set of silk sweet pea jewelry—bracelet, earrings, ring and corsage to match—gives a Spanish air to a black silk lace evening gown. You will wear large corsages of silk flowers with sashes of silk velvet ribbon in harmonizing [illegible]. Tiny backless visor hats of silk net are worn for evening.

Courtesy, International Silk Guild

MODES OF THE MOMENT

The formal frock plays a new combination—contrasting fabrics. Diana Mervine

The latest formal modes for the warmer season are very intriguing in combinations of fabrics, a plain with print or contrast of colors in the same fabric. Sheer chiffons, organdies, and linens also make up many of the new creations.

In the sketch above is pictured a most delightful model for summer's formal occasions. This beautifully styled gown of white crepe, is topped by a bodice jacket of colorful printed crepe.

The figure-moulding gown is entirely in white and features a princess effect at front with bust defining lines. A belt appears only at the back waistline, while above the belt, the back is bloused quite full and slashed at the center as shown in the small detail sketch. The front is V-shaped and the much favored shirring trims it effectively.

The colorfully printed separate jacket adds so much to its usefulness and smartness. This jacket has a high, stylish neckline and uses a pleated and shirred yoke treatment. Also noteworthy is the very wide, crushed sash of white crepe which is cleverly attached to the tiny jacket at back. It encircles the waistline and ties in front with long graceful ends falling below.

THE MARGARET BEAUTY SHOP TO OPEN ON WEDNESDAY

The Margaret Beauty Shop, a new and modern shop for all branches of beauty culture, will open Wednesday at 528 Broadway. The new shop, under the management of Mrs. Raymond Cardone, who has been engaged in beauty work in Kingston for a number of years, is completely equipped with all the newer appliances for this type of work.

A feature of the new shop will be Remo scalp treatments. Remo is a new scalp food developed recently and according to several persons who have received treatments it is a most successful agent in the correction of itching scalp, dandruff, falling hair, etc. Both Mr. and Mrs. Cardone are enthusiastic over this treatment having been perfecting it for several months using many types of heads to find the exact results of the treatment.

Full particulars regarding the new establishment will be found in an ad elsewhere in this paper.

A survey of business management for cooperative associations is scheduled for the first five mornings of the week July 15 to 20, as a part of the sessions of the American Institute of Cooperation at Cornell University.

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock, July 1.—Henry Mattson returned recently from a trip to Sweden where he visited relatives whom he had not seen for many years.

The concrete is being laid for the new road and has already nearly reached the heart of the village.

The Wittenberg mill was closed on Saturday while the entire personnel and family attended the circus in Kingston.

On the trip planned by Dyrus and Edith Cook they will take a collection of prints, etchings and paintings which they intend to exhibit and sell on their trip. They will also give lectures as they go along. The trip will last for at least two months, the Cooks say.

Easy to Make Pool Gardens

Ithaca, N. Y., July 2—An attractive though small water garden that lasts from late June until heavy frost is easy to make at little cost, according to Professor J. P. Porter of the New York state college of agriculture.

All that is needed is a half-barrel or a water-tight tub, two-thirds of a bushel of very rich soil, a few moisture-loving plants, water, and sunshine. He gives these directions:

Sink the tub or barrel-halves into the ground almost to the rim. They should be about two feet deep, allowing for one foot of soil and one foot of water. A few clumps of such moisture-loving plants such as iris, forget-me-nots, cardinal flower, turtle-head, ferns, and ornamental grasses may be planted around the tub as a frame for water lilies in the water.

As for soil, mix one bushel of good garden soil or rotted sod with one quart of ground bone, obtainable at any seed or farmers' supply store.

The beginner should use only hardy lilies, one lily root for each barrel. Plant it during early June. Set the root carefully, deep in the soil, then cover the soil with about one inch of clean sand.

Introduce the water very slowly and gently so as not to disturb either sand or soil. All that is necessary, once the pool is filled, is to replenish water that evaporates. An occasional spraying in the late afternoon supplies this and washes dust or insects from the leaves. A few goldfish in the pool will keep mosquitoes away.

National Bank Call Was Issued Today

Washington, July 2 (AP).—The comptroller of the currency issued a call today for the condition of all National banks at the close of business Saturday, June 29.

National banking laws require the issuance of at least three calls per year for condition statements.

While the dates are optional, one call usually is timed as of the close of the fiscal year in order that a comparative history of banking may be maintained.

In recent years it also has been the practice to issue a call as of the close of business each calendar year.

Today's call marks the second issued thus far this year.

WALL STREET TREES HIT WITH SOME KIND OF BLIGHT

Some kind of a blight seems to have struck the trees along the west side of Wall street between Main street and the court house. Three of the maples are to all appearances entirely dead and one of the others does not look as if it were in the best of health. One man who was heard to comment on the fact this morning suggested that the source of the trouble might lie in the electric wires or cable that run along that side of the street through the tops of the trees.

TROOPS RULE IN MINE STRIKE ZONE

Keys Brothers Rest After Record Flight

Meridian, Miss., July 2 (AP)—Back to earth after more than 27 days aloft, Fred and Al Key today slept off the effects of a record endurance flight which they said succinctly wasn't "any fun."

The brothers, who brought their plane, The Ole Miss, to a safe landing at 7:06 p. m. (eastern standard time) yesterday, broke all existing marks for sustained flying. Their record is 27 days, 5 hours and 34 minutes.

Thousands of spectators cheered as the brothers circled the field and made a perfect landing despite a flat tire. The fliers were almost mobbed by the crowd before police and National Guardsmen led them through the mass.

"It's been a hard old fight," said Fred Key, "but it's been O. K, I guess."

"We're mighty happy, of course, we broke the record," Al Key declared. "We're awfully tired and I'm telling you it wasn't any fun, but we're both happy now."

They said they intended to sleep for "two or three days."

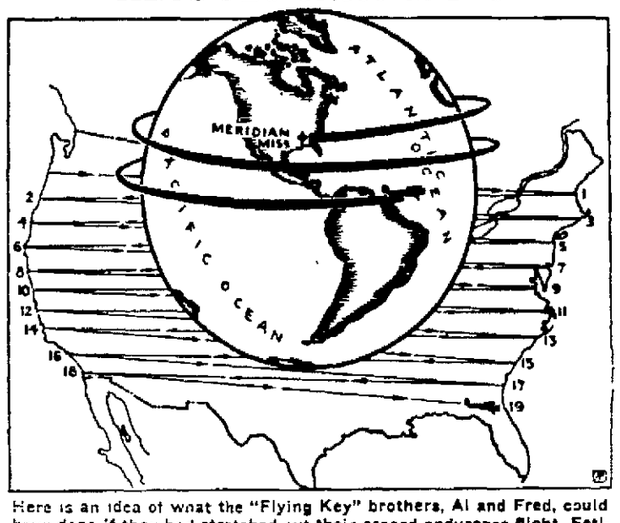
The official endurance record of 552 hours, 41 minutes and 30 seconds, set in 1930 at Chicago by John and Kenneth Hunter, was broken by the Keys last Thursday at 3:13½ p. m.

Fighting storms and mechanical trouble, the Keys remained aloft and one minute past noon yesterday smashed the unofficial record of 647 hours, 28 minutes and 30 seconds established in 1930 by Dale Jackson and Forest O Brine at St. Louis.

Formal Protest

Moscow, July 2 (AP)—Soviet Russia confronted Japan today with a formal protest, charging that violations of Soviet territory by Manchoukuan gunboats and soldiers may result in "very serious consequences." The protest, presented in Tokyo by Ambassador Constantin Yureneff, asserted that the responsibility for intrusions beyond Soviet lines would fall on Japan.

KEYS FLY 59,000 MILES



Here is an idea of what the "Flying Key" brothers, Al and Fred, could have done if they had stretched out their record endurance flight. Estimating the "Ole Miss'" cruising speed at 90 miles an hour, the flight would have encircled the world more than twice (approximately 59,000 miles) or crossed the United States some 19 times.

Practicing Dictatorship

Washington, July 2 (AP)—Jouett Shouse says President Roosevelt, in submitting New Deal legislation to Congress, is practicing a "dictatorship" and is displacing Democratic government with a "bureaucratic autocracy." Shouse, president of the American Liberty League, made these charges in a radio speech last night. He also asserted that despite the supreme court's NRA decision, the administration was still seeking "enlarged powers" and that the new tax-the-wealth program was a "political gesture."

To Enlist Foreigners

Berlin, July 2 (AP)—The minister of wars was empowered today, under a decree by Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, to enlist foreigners in the German army. The measure affected "persons who for some reason are not German citizens and Germans living abroad who want to serve the Reich."

Liquor Authority Ruling on Beer

A communication has been received from the State Liquor Authority by the local ABC Board in regard to the sale of beer during the time application for a renewal of license for the ensuing year is pending. Sale is forbidden unless the license for the 1935-1936 period has actually been received.

The communication from the State Liquor Authority to local boards of Zone 2 is as follows:

"No person who is not in possession of an appropriate license for the period July 1, 1935-June 30, 1936, may sell beer without committing a misdemeanor. The fact that an application has been filed for a renewal does not permit the applicant to sell beer, and he must await the actual issuance of his license in order to comply with the law. While hearings are being scheduled as rapidly as possible in connection with disapproved applications it is going to require considerable time to hold them all Meanwhile those applicants who have received disapproved notices and who are awaiting hearings are not permitted to sell beer. The State Liquor Authority will automatically disapprove all pending applications if it is discovered that beer is being sold on the premises in violation of law."

Decides in Favor of Slain Man's Widow

Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck, official referee, has handed down a decision in favor of Rose S. Markis, as administratrix of the estate of George Markis, deceased, in the action which she brought against Rudolph Tuschkan to have the court determine the interests of the estate of George Markis in the former Lindsley property at No. 88 Hasbrouck avenue, Kingston. Testimony in the case was taken in February and March of this year. The testimony disclosed that Rudolph Tuschkan had purchased the property for George Markis in July, 1933, on a foreclosure sale. That Markis paid $1,400 toward the purchase price, although Tuschkan continued to hold title to the property. That Tuschkan contributed $2,810 toward the purchase price and made certain expenditures for taxes and insurance, etc., on the property. In February, 1934, George Markis was murdered at said property and Alexander Kish pleaded guilty to the murder of George Markis and is now in prison. That after George Markis' death, Mrs. Markis demanded that Rudolph Tuschkan account to her for the interest George Markis had in said property. That Rudolph Tuschkan refused to account for the reason that he claimed that in January, 1934, he had purchased and paid for the interest of George Markis in the property. Judge Hasbrouck has decided that Tuschkan did not purchase the interests of George Markis in said property and that the interest of the Markis estate in said property is $1,171.99 which represents the balance remaining of the $1,400 paid on the purchase price by Markis, after deducting one-half of the expenses of maintaining the property.

Flanagan & Kaercher are attorneys for Mrs. Markis. The defendant is represented by Cashin & Ewig

New York Police Directed to Aid

Albany, N. Y., July 2 (AP).—Cooperation of the New York city police department in the investigation of vice and crime racketeering in New York county was requested by Governor Herbert H. Lehman today in a letter to Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine.

"There are two principal law-enforcement agencies in the city of New York," the governor wrote "the police department and the district attorney. The police department with its force of more than 18,000 men is charged with the duty of detecting the commission of crime and the apprehension of criminals. The district attorney has the duty of prosecuting criminals.

"As you know, the March, 1935, grand jury concluded that in its opinion racketeering and organized crime were prevalent in the county of New York. As to the degree and extent of the existence of such crime you, of course, are in a far better position to judge and determine.

"The appointment of a special prosecutor (Thomas E. Dewey) and the convening of an extraordinary term of the supreme court with a special grand jury should prove of very great help in wiping out such crime.

"However, I am sure you will agree with me that without complete cooperation and coordination of effort between the police department and the special prosecutor, it will be utterly impossible to achieve the results in which we are all interested; the destruction of racketeering and organized crime."

WEATHER BUREAU TO WATCH HURRICANES

Three Posts Opened to Render Better Service.

Washington.—The big chiefs of the United States weather bureau have moved to divide up the responsibility for forecasting hurricanes.

Too often, it appears, has the hurricane service, centralized in Washington, been caught napping on the advent of a hurricane arising in the distant Caribbean.

To secure quicker and more accurate forecasts the Agricultural department asked congress to appropriate $80,000 for the weather bureau to establish hurricane forecasting outposts at New Orleans, Jacksonville and San Juan, Puerto Rico.

E. B. Calvert, chief of the hurricane service, has already charted the storm region for allotment among the three stations, as follows:

New Orleans—Covering the Gulf of Mexico and the gulf coast west of longitude 80 W.

Jacksonville—Atlantic coast south of latitude 35 and the gulf and Caribbean areas not otherwise assigned.

San Juan—Caribbean sea and islands east of longitude 75 and south of latitude 20.

In addition Jacksonville will issue daily weather forecasts warning of cold waves and frosts in the fruit belt and take over from Washington a twice daily wind and weather forecast for marines from Cape Hatteras to the western Caribbean.

Teletype will connect Jacksonville and New Orleans with ten gulf coast cities during the five months' hurricane season, while radio will flash signals from co-operating vessels plying the Caribbean.

Black Hen Broth Found Cure in Hiccough Case

Beaumont, Texas. — Hiccoughers needn't suffer long from violent, nerve-racking spasms, P. W. Gillespie, seventy-five, who had them himself, writes.

He was exhausted after four days of violent hiccoughing. Medical aid failed to give him relief. His family appealed to the public for home remedies.

Responses came from Louisiana and Oklahoma by the hundreds. One person telephoned from Kansas City.

The remedies include: Press ears against head for two minutes; hold tongue out for a minute; drink water through linen handkerchief; place brown paper bag over face for five minutes; drink pineapple juice; hold head back and swallow water slowly; turn backward somersault; take flight in airplane.

An unknown sympathizer telegrphed from Ada, Okla., that Gillespie drink black hen broth. He did and the attacks became intermittent and soon stopped.

Gillespie said he always would be grateful to a little black hen.

125-Year-Old Church Is Dissolved by Court Writ

Lisbon, Ohio.—The 125-year-old Trinity Reformed church in Hanover township, near here, was dissolved under an order issued by Columbiana County Common Pleas Judge W. F. Lones.

A 40-acre tract was divided. The synod was granted the church and its site. The parsonage was awarded to the Central Theological seminary and the cemetery adjoining the church was assigned to the Trinity Reformed Church Cemetery association.

The parish was established in 1810 by Rev. John Stauzh, a German Lutheran minister. He served as pastor until 1847.

Says One Out of Three Children Auto Victim

Philadelphia, Pa.—W. L. Robinson, safety director of the Philadelphia Automobile club, estimates that at the present rate of traffic accidents one out of every three children born in the United States is destined to be killed or seriously injured by automobiles. He pointed out that 4,200 school children were killed and 140,000 injured in automobile accidents during the last year, an increase of more than 18 per cent.

Dog Beggar Accepts Only Good Nickels

Pauls Valley, Okla.—Plug nickels aren't good enough for Jack, blueblood bird-dog owned by Edgar Long, local hardware merchant.

With the bird season over Jack, to earn a living, becomes a panhandler. He treads the streets of Pauls Valley with a paper sack dangling from his teeth begging merchants from door to door to drop in a nickel so he can buy meat.

Shopkeepers try to dissuade the big English setter with pennies, pins and washers but he won't accept them. The donation must be a nickel and it cannot go into his sack until he examines it.

When Jack acquires a nickel he goes immediately to a nearby meat market, enters the front door, approaches the meat case and points, true bird-dog fashion, to the meat he wants.

Butchers have learned not to "short weight" the dog nor to sell him tough steaks. He detects discrepancies as readily as does a housewife and refuses to trade with short weight artists.

You Can Have A Clear, Lovely Complexion Free From Pimples and Blemishes In A Natural Way

A clear, lovely complexion is a wonderful asset and always admired by everyone. It can be easily had without the use of drugs. Just try this simple test. Eat a few slices of Grunenwald's HONEY-MEEL LOAF 3 times a day for a week or two. Grunenwald's HONEY-MEEL LOAF is a pure natural food. It contains a liberal amount of Pure Honey, Whole Wheat Meal and Bran. Pure Honey is always recommended by leading doctors as a mild laxative. Whole Wheat Meal and Bran supplies the bulk or roughage and aids in preventing coagulation in the intestines. Thus it affords an easy natural way of proper elimination of waste from your system. It is the old accumulative waste in your system that causes dull, coarse complexion, pimples and blemishes.

One of the first questions doctors usually ask is. How is your elimination? They know that normal elimination is most essential to clear youhtful complexions. And one of the first things to do in treating such conditions is to correct sluggishness and constipation if it is present.

If you feel sluggish, irritable, easily tired and not your own self, try eating Grunenwald's HONEY-MEEL LOAF for a week or two. You will be pleased how different you will feel and how your complexion will improve. Grunenwald's HONEY-MEEL LOAF is sold at all leading grocery stores in a neat attractive cellophane window wrapper.

Everybody Knows that the Freeman Cent-a-Word Ads. Bring Quick Results. Try Them!

Figures Tell Part of Story

Ithaca, N. Y., July 2.—The way a child behaves during a mental test may help the examiner even more than does the child's score in that test, says Frances V. Markey, psychology examiner for the nursery school, New York state college of home economics.

"A child's responses to a particular test are colored by various circumstances, just as a pulse-beat is affected by various activities," Miss Markey explains She adds that a psychologist interprets a child's responses to a test just as a physician judges the meaning of a pulse beat by its relation to other processes.

Tests, such as the Merrill-Palmer and the Stanford-Binet scales, are valuable for pre-school children because they help parents and teachers to know how to plan for the child. Tests for pre-school children are chiefly of two kinds, by words and acts; they must both include materials and problems of real interest to the child. Young children are in general more interested in tests that require action than in those that deal with words, Miss Markey says.

The tests used for pre-school children are standardized by groups of children from various sources, such as homes, nursery schools, and orphanages. From these a picture is obtained of an average of what the child does on a particular test. The average of a child's responses shows how much above or below normal his performance is.

In testing young children, the examiner must adjust herself to the child's personality, and meet him on the child's ground rather than on that of the examiner, to get the child to perform as well as he can, Miss Markey says. She explains that examiners are trained to give the tests in a uniform way so that the personality of the examiner may not affect the results.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By CLAUDE E. JAGGER

New York, July 2 (AP).—With Washington developments apparently to its liking, the stock market today devoted most of its bullish attention to the utilities.

The power group was given a fast early play following yesterday's late defeat in the house of representatives of the holding bill "death sentence" clause. But other groups were not particularly enthusiastic and a number of soft spots appeared in the list as the trading volume dwindled. Morning gains were shaded in many instances or cancelled.

Shares getting up fractions to a point or more included American Telephone, Western Union, Consolidated Gas, North American, Pacific Lighting, Pacific Gas, Liggett & Myers "B," American Tobacco "B," American Can, Continental Can, Woolworth, Corn Products, Timken Roller Bearing and Westinghouse. A decline of around 3 points was suffered by both the common and preferred stocks of Southern Railway. The other carriers were easier. The oils, steels and motors did little.

MRS. MOODY, MISS JACOBS WIN AT WIMBLEDON TODAY

London, July 2 (AP)—Miss Dorothy Round, the defending champion, was eliminated from the all-England tennis championships today when she lost her final match to the little Australian, Joan Hartigan, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Miss Hartigan scored the biggest upset of the tournament so far when she rallied after losing the first set to score an impressive victory.

Miss Round was not on top of her game, but on the best day she ever saw she would have had difficulty coping with Miss Hartigan's forehand. The Australian girl has practically no backhand, but she covered the court so fast today she seldom had to expose this weakness.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody won her quarter-final match against the formidable French player, Mme. Rene Mathieu, 6-3, 6-0. She will meet Miss Hartigan in the semi-finals.

Helen Jacobs, winner of the American championship the past three years, defeated Mlle. Jadwiga Jedzejowsko of Poland, 6-1, 9-7 and will meet Fraulein Sperling in the other semi-final.

Indian Blowgun, Curious Weapon, Still Being Used

The blowgun is a dart shooting instrument consisting of a long tube of cane, wood or some other material. It is actually a weapon through which arrows or other missiles can be shot accurately to a considerable distance. The principle of this weapon is the same as that of the common "peashooter." Little darts are discharged from it by blowing with the mouth. The darts are usually hard, slender splints or weed stems, pointed at one end and wrapped at the butt with cotton, thistle down, or other soft materials.

This curious implement, says Pathfinder Magazine, was common in the more southerly parts of the United States, the habitat of the fishing cane of which it was made, in the Eighteenth century. The Cherokee, Iroquois and Muskhogean Indian tribes used it. The Cherokees, who called the little darts by the same name as that of the thistle, gathered the heads of thistles at the proper season and packed them together in the form of a wheel which they hung in their teepees to be made into darts at some future date. They called the down of the thistle "wild cotton." The northern Iroquois substituted elder stalks for cane in making their blowguns. The Hopi Indians, in certain tribal ceremonies, still blow feathers to the four cardinal points through tubes of cane.

The South American Indian tribes inhabiting the region between the Amazon and Orinoco rivers still use blowguns both in warfare and the chase.

Egyptians Foresaw Life on Earth to Hereafter

How the ancient Egyptians visualized the projection of the normal activities of life on earth to the hereafter is illustrated in a collection of wooden model groups of people and equipment, buried in graves of the old kingdom (2500 B. C.) and the middle kingdom (2000 B. C.), on exhibition in the hall of Egyptian archeology at Field Museum of Natural History.

Starting in the old kingdom time with single figures of the dead themselves, their children, and their household servants, which it was believed would serve in another world as substitute bodies if the original mummies should perish, there developed during the middle kingdom a custom of placing in the tombs elaborate groups representing in part people at their household duties and partly the ceremonies conducted for the benefit of the dead. As food was fundamental, figures representing the making of bread and beer, and showing ovens and baskets of food, were prominent.

Mediterranean Sea of Ages

There is only one sea that has been contemporary with all history—the Mediterranean. The Pacific and the Atlantic have been known to us for less than a thousand years, but the "Mare Mediterraneum" has been "the Great Sea" from the unremembered past. The ancient nations which ruled the waves—Phoenicians, Carthaginians, Greeks, Romans, Venetians—were all Mediterranean peoples. It is the sea of the ages. On its waters Odysseus journeyed home from Troy, and Aeneas made his eventful voyages. It bore Caesar's prows as he set forth to conquer and carried the argosies of Byzantium as they brought home the wealth of earliest commerce.

Teeth Tell Home State

Human teeth are a pretty good geographical index. If a person has large, broad teeth, hard as flint, he is almost certain to be a Texan. Pennsylvanians also have tough teeth, while persons reared in the Puget Sound region and in the Michigan golfer district are likely to have soft ones. These are conclusions of relief clinic dentists, according to the Forecast. Limestone is responsible for the good dental condition of Texans and Pennsylvanians.

Boarded Wrong Ships

When the American revolution broke out Britain's admiralty offered a large money reward and three years' exemption from service to any of her seamen who embarked on board an American ship and made themselves masters of her. Unfortunately for Britain, Englishmen who sought for the rewards did not always trouble to distinguish between American and French ships, inflaming France and hastening France's alliance with America.

Army of Grubs

The grubs, or little maggots, of the "Army worm fly," have one of the queerest habits in nature. Less than a quarter of an inch long when fully grown, they travel in a column several feet long and an inch or two wide. Some crawl on top of the others and so form a column, the whole being bound together by a sticky substance which covers their surfaces. The column then moves along like a huge serpent.—Tit-Bits Magazine.

The Sabbatical Year

In the Old Testament the sabbatical year is described as a year of rest, either for the priests or for the soil. In modern times it refers to a year's leave given to clergymen and teachers, for travel, study or rest. The term implies that such a year comes at the end of six years of service, but it is now used in a broader sense for a leave of absence after any number of years of service.

MUSEUM OF "G" MEN IS FULL OF HORROR

Meant to Show That Outlawry Does Not Pay.

Washington.—The federal bureau of investigation, Department of Justice, is operating a museum of crime—admission free—which makes the celebrated Mme. Tussaud's waxwork horrors seem tame by comparison.

There's no wax in the government's museum. The blood is real. So are the bullet holes.

The display is housed in the modernistic reception room of J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the "G" men. There in glass cases surrounded by all four walls are mementos of some of the most notorious desperadoes in recent history—and how they met their ends.

In the place of prominence is the bloody straw hat of John Dillinger, who was shot to death in front of a Chicago movie theater. Beside it is a cheap cigar he had in his pocket, a broken gold frame from the eyeglasses he wore as a disguise, and a plaster cast of his face, showing the bullet holes.

Missing—and asked about by most visitors—is the famous wooden gun which Dillinger is supposed to have carved in his leisure moments and used to make his escape from the Crown Point (Ind.) jail. There seems to be some doubt now whether such an imitation gun ever existed.

Outlaw Arms.

Near by is gruesome evidence of many a kidnaping, murder and bank robbery. Case after case is filled with machine guns, shotguns, revolvers and knives taken from criminals. There are pieces of hangmen's ropes, which tightened around some of their necks.

It is interesting to note that many of the weapons are stamped with the insignia of the United States army, showing that they were stolen by underworldings from National Guard armories. The Department of Justice even now is waging a vigorous campaign to force the states to keep their armories locked tight against marauding gangsters.

Another major display is the green thermos jug in which the kidnapers hid part of the $200,000 ransom money they obtained from Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City business man. The jug was dug up from a cornfield in Texas.

Girl's Wig Shown.

Draped beside it is the red wig which a feminine member of the Urschel kidnap gang wore when she was captured in Memphis, Tenn.

It is a dull day when 100 or more persons do not sign the register at the display. Most of them take a regular tour of the Justice department, spending most of their time in the seventh-floor laboratories, where science works amazingly in the war against crime.

There are the shops where faces and hands and sometimes whole bodies are reconstructed in plaster and painted so realistically that they seem real.

There is the fingerprint division, which contains the everlasting signatures of several million Americans, most of them lawbreakers, although the division also has a non-criminal fingerprint division for the protection of any law-abiding citizen who wants to make use of it.

A photograph laboratory, a microscopic division, which can look at a bullet and tell what kind of gun it came from, and even identify the gun, an experimental radio plant, and a general chemical laboratory complete the layout.

Bullet-Proof Vests Are Found to Be Inadequate

Toledo, Ohio.—Bullet-proof vests with which peace officers are equipped are no longer a protection against some firearms and munitions, in the belief of Sheriff James O'Reilly of Lucas county.

For that reason government limitation on velocity of ammunition was urged by him in a letter sent by Prosecutor Frazier Reams to Congressman Warren J. Duffy of Toledo.

The sheriff, citing the making of super-powered firearms and munitions said that should officers arm themselves with equally powerful weapons, lives of bystanders would be endangered by ricocheted bullets.

Jury Indicts Dead Man on Charge of Murder

Cincinnati.—A dead man was indicted here recently by the Hamilton county grand jury on a charge of first-degree murder. Court attaches said it was the first action of its kind.

The indictment was against Lindsey Cyrus, Morrow, Ohio, shoemaker, who was killed in a gun battle with detectives during an attempted robbery. Cyrus was indicted in order that authorities might bring a charge of conspiracy to rob and murder against his alleged companion, Leland English.

Indian Warriors Caught Hunting Airplane's Eggs

Cabeyara, Colombia.—Several Indian warriors, caught by a sentry while hunting for something beneath the wings of a tri-motored Ford transport plane, confessed they were looking for the "big bird's eggs."

The savage tribes of this desolate region saw their first planes only recently, when the Colombian government established an airline from Bogota to Puerto Carreno, on the Orinoco river. Awed, they traced the "big bird" to its "nest."

Pretzsch, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, of which she was a member, officiated and spoke very feelingly of the long and useful life of the deceased. Of the true Christian spirit manifested by her in the loving kindnesses and charities bestowed in a quiet unassuming manner. After the regular services the Rev. Father Mabry, a former pastor of Holy Cross Church, and while here an admiring neighbor of her true Christian character and principles, spoke a few words to the bereaved family. Interment was in the family plot in St. Mary's Cemetery where the Very Rev John J. Stanley, assisted by Fathers Kennedy and Moore, pronounced the final absolution at the grave.

Mysterious Death at Sea

New York, July 2 (AP) — Agbie Eames, 40, Wellesley, Mass., school teacher, was mysteriously lost off the Italian liner Conte Grande during the westward passage across the Atlantic, ships officers reported when the vessel docked today. Nothing is known of the circumstances of her disappearance. She was last seen having luncheon on June 25 after boarding the Conte Grande at Gibraltar and was reported missing the next day. A cousin, Burton Eames, met the boat and claimed her effects. He said that to the best of his knowledge Miss Eames was quite happy and had no reason for committing suicide. For the past four years she had taught English in Italian private schools, most recently in Florence.

The Jolly Get-to-gether Club will hold a card and bunco party this evening at the residence of Mrs. Prull, 71 Cedar street.

Miles of Mounds

That the Mound Builders showed considerable partiality to Ohio as a residential region is evidenced by the more than 12,000 places within the limits of the state where these early inhabitants left testimonials. It has been estimated that their early productions, if placed side by side in a continuous line, would exceed more than 300 miles. Moreover, it is estimated that the productions of the Mound Builders contain at least 30,000,000 cubic yards of earth or stone and that it would require 1,000 laborers, each one working 300 days in the year, a century to complete these earthen edifices, or it would take 300,000 laborers one year to accomplish the same result.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The King's Salary

The annuities paid to the King of England and to members of the royal family are known as the Civil List, granted by parliament upon the recommendation of a select committee. According to Whitaker's Almanac the king's Civil List amounts to 470,000 pounds (about $2,350,000) and the annuities to other members of the royal family 155,000 pounds ($775,000). In the first of these are included 125,000 pounds for salaries of the royal household and 130,000 for expenses of household.

The steady increase in the number of visitors from the United States during the past three years is bringing Nova Scotia into the limelight as one of America's foremost summer resorts.

RICHFIELD GASOLINE OF POWER

HIGH OCTANE RICHFIELD

HERE'S A TIP FOR THE 4th

A recent investigation showed that 23% of the motorists who start out in the family car for a Fourth of July trip, fail to secure an expert check-up of their automobiles before leaving.

The result is a ruined holiday for many motorists—and holidays come too seldom to take such a chance.

The Richfield station or dealer in your neighborhood has complete equipment for giving your car a careful and thorough checking before your trip.

No annoying body squeaks or rattles after a Richlube All-Point Lubrication job. No worry about burnt-out bearings with Richlube Motor Oil. No sluggish motor with Richfield Hi-Octane Gasoline that delivers premium performance at no extra cost.

Another great discovery was Richfield Hi-Octane Gasoline for smooth, powerful motor performance.

VACATION PROBLEMS SOLVED FOR DRIVERS

The annual puzzle of "where to go for vacation" has been made easier of solution this year, officials of the Richfield Oil Corporation of New York announced today. New road maps, attractively printed in colors, are now available at Richfield stations and dealers, giving conditions of roads, and points of scenic and historic interest.

These maps are being distributed without cost to Richfield customers, and enable the motorist to plan his trip in advance, and to determine before starting exactly where he wants to go and what route he shall follow to get there.

"78" LUBRICATION POINTS FOUND

Investigation has proven that some cars have as many as 78 separate points that require regular lubrication—the average for all cars is forty.

Leading automotive engineers say that inexpert greasing causes over fifty per cent of automobile repair bills.

Richfield, recognizing the need of careful attention to every moving part of the modern automobile, has equipped its service stations with every modern device for insuring a thorough and lasting lubrication service.

Step in at your nearest Richfield station and ask for a Richlube All-Point Lubrication job. It will save you money and make your car ride more smoothly.

NEW MOVIES FOR CHILD SAFETY

The Automobile Club of New York has made a signal contribution to child safety education by preparing a series of moving picture films designed to make children safety conscious. These movies are loaned by the Club to its members but the recipients must have their own 16 mm. projector. These pictures are not of the humdrum type. They're educational to people of all ages but are all the more exciting to the younger folks because children of school age are active in the pictures.

All the continent is yours this year. There never was a better time to see the wonders of your country. Roads were never better. Prices were never lower . . . and who can count on it that they will be as low next year?

Saddleback Ledge, Crossing-Of-The-Fathers, Androscoggin, Yoho Valley, Ishpeming, Buffalo Lick, Crazy Horse Rapids, Canajoharie, North Hero, Blowing Rock, Lakes in the Clouds . . .

How To Save Money On Your Vacation

ONE family can take a fine vacation and spend a lot of money doing it. Their next-door-neighbors can take the same trip, do the same things, enjoy the same rest and change of scene and get by on a lot less. How come?

It's all in how you get ready beforehand . . . and it makes a mighty big difference! Sensible people buy for a vacation the same way they buy food for a dinner party, gifts for Christmas, furniture for a new home.

They "shop the ads" in the Daily Freeman!

Don't wait until a week beforehand and then scurry around trying to get ready. You'll be in a hurry, you won't have time to buy wisely, you'll invariably pay too much! Start now to read and check the Daily Freeman ads. Take advantage of the advertised sales to cut corners and still be sure of high quality.

Begin by "shopping the ads" in today's issue. Keep it up every day. Then when the great day dawns, you will be ready for vacation down to the last button — and have more money to spend on fun and "going places"!

FRENCH FEAR CURSE IN MAN MADE GOLD

See Civilization's Fate at Inventor's Mercy.

Paris.—Will the world welcome the invention of a powerful death ray?

How will men greet an invention which will permit anyone to produce gold at home cheaply?

Will not these discoveries mean the end of our civilization?

These are questions that Frenchmen in all walks of life are asking themselves these days as the result of the announcement of Jan Dunikowsky, Polish engineer and "modern alchemist," that he has achieved the two discoveries. He has already proved to one expert his ability to make gold cheaply, and he has demonstrated to journalists the effectiveness of his death ray, on a reduced scale.

Everything in France ends in laughter, but the French amusement at Dunikowsky's original experiments is beginning to be turned into a feeling of annoyance.

During those two years that Dunikowsky spent in a Paris prison for having falsely claimed that he could produce gold, the public laughed good naturedly at him and looked upon him as just an eccentric. During those two years Dunikowsky was allowed to leave his cell and visit a city laboratory, where he worked to prove that he was not a swindler.

Takes Refuge in Italy.

After serving his time, Dunikowsky took refuge with his family in a villa at Saint Remo, Italy, where he continued his experiments. He wanted eventually to prove that he was not a fake and then have his conviction in the French courts reversed.

Recently, Maitre Legrand, his attorney, announced that Dunikowsky had achieved his goal. Monsieur Bonn, a chemist attached as expert to the French law courts, went down to St. Remo. He spent six hours in Dunikowsky's villa applying the Pole's method to auriferous earth. At the end of the experiment, Bonn issued a statement declaring that in his opinion the technique devised by Dunikowsky did in fact extract a larger quantity of gold from the earth than would be possible by methods now in use.

Bonn said no fraud was possible. He made a careful examination of the apparatus beforehand. The earth brought by Bonn was divided into three lots. Dunikowskys "Zeta" rays and then complicated chemical processes were used on the first lot of earth, as the result of which two small globules of gold emerged.

The second lot produced no gold because it was not submitted to the Zeta rays even though it underwent the same complicated chemical processes as the first lot. The third lot was submitted to the rays but to no further treatment. This lot is being sent to Paris for examination.

Tells How Rays Work.

Dunikowsky explained the action of the Zeta rays as follows:

"The bombardment of the gold by the rays causes it to mature from its 'embryo form' in a quarter of an hour instead of in the great number of centuries required for this transformation hitherto."

Bonn says the Dunikowskys have been living by their gold production for the last two years.

Not content with his gold making, Dunikowsky suddenly offered to France the invention of the death ray in exchange for his rehabilitation in a rehearing of the trial which condemned him for fraud in connection with his invention for extracting gold from auriferous earth. The same newspaper men who had been crowding into the villa to make gold now crowded back in again to see another demonstration.

Dunikowsky explained that airplanes could be brought down with his death ray by using two streams of rays and crossing them on the object aimed at, thus producing a short circuit. He tried the trick on a toy airplane and it burst into flames.

Lives in Covered Bridge, Woman Has 5 Addresses

Boston.—New Hampshire has a resident who lives in one place and has five addresses. To reach her by mail one sends a letter to Penacook. For a telegram the address is Boscawen. To find her in the telephone directory one must look under Salisbury. A visitor going to her home by rail leaves the train at Bagley. And all the time she lives in the town of Webster.

Her house carries a sign. "This bridge is closed by order of the court." She found the old covered bridge on private land, bought it, moved it to land she owned, reduced its length and fitted it to foundations already in place and put it in order for occupancy.

These Pigeons Jump to Maturity in Four Days

Santa Barbara, Calif.—Pigeons jumped from babyhood to maturity in four days under pituitary gland treatments in an experiment at a hospital here.

Under normal growth pigeons do not develop sexual glands, the sign of maturity, until they are several months old. Birds six weeks old, just learning their mates, developed the sexuals in four days when treated with the pituitary hormone.

Guinea pigs are next in line for speedy development.

Half of Table Rock Blown Into Gorge

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 2 (AP)—Half of Table Rock, known to sightseers from all over the world, lay in a shattered pile deep in the Niagara gorge today as workers prepared the dynamite charges which will blast away the remainder of the huge, overhanging ledge July 4.

A combination of dynamite and black powder, packed in metal tubes and tamped into drill holes 20 feet deep, ripped away 11,000 tons of the rock yesterday in two mighty blasts as 50,000 persons watched from the Canadian and American banks.

Burning up 378 pounds of the powder and 27 pounds of dynamite the first explosion at 3 p. m. sent a 5,000 ton chunk hurtling to the bottom of the gorge. So well had the charges been placed in a straight line of 42 holes only a few venturesome souls, perched on the very edge of the precipice, saw the rock break away and crash below.

More spectacular, the second and larger blast, fired at 6 o'clock roared through the vast cut and sent 6,000 additional tons of rock rumbling into the gorge and completing half the job of cutting the ledge back some 20 feet to make it safe for tourists.

Table Rock—known to many as Honeymoon Point—was weakened by rock slides last winter. The blasting operations were devised by the Niagara Parks Commission to remove the danger of it crashing under the weight of tourists who thronged to it because it afforded them the closest view of the Horseshoe Falls from the Canadian side.

Peace Plan Studied

Albany, N. Y., July 2 (AP)—Members of the troubled garment industry in New York city studied today a peace plan offered by Governor Herbert H. Lehman in an effort to avert a strike of 40,000 workers. The plan forwarded to the four groups of manufacturers and the two unions involved in the controversy over wages and working agreements, was the result of a week-end of study by the governor and a hearing held last week. The governor recommended that the union's demands for a 20 per cent increase in wages and a reduction in hours from 35 to 30 hours a week be denied. He advised, however, that the disputed "limitations clause" in working agreements—vigorously demanded by the unions—be included in all new agreements.

Formosts And Hercules' Game Ends In Deadlock; Score 2-2

Hercules' Powdermen still retain first position in the City League, but they had a bad scare thrown into their camp at the Athletic Field, Monday evening, and were lucky to come out on even terms with the Formosts. After battling for two hours the best either team could get was two runs and the game ended 2-all when darkness interrupted.

As predicted the fans enjoyed a real pitchers' battle, with Eddie Scherer of the Powdermen and Jimmy Martin of the Formosts sharing the honors.

Martin was found for four hits, one less than Scherer, and fanned nine batters while Scherer sat down five of the batters by way of the strikeout route. But Martin's control was nowhere near as good as Scherer's. He issued four free trips to first base and hit three batsmen.

Johnny Quest was the only hitter to get more than one safety, collecting two singles, while Stumpf and Short hit doubles for the longest hits of the evening.

Hercules started the scoring by pushing a run over the platter in the second inning. They loaded the bases and had a good opportunity of scoring more than one. Short opened the inning with a double and after Quest and Dulin fanned, Scherer and Peterson received walks. Niles hit to Dawkins, but Stumpf dropped Dawkins' throw and Short registered.

Formosts manufactured their two runs in the third frame. Messing singled and reached second on a sacrifice by Johnson. Stumpf inserted his double at this time and Messing tallied. On the relay of the ball Niles threw wide to Cullum and Stumpf raced all the way home.

Harry Houghtaling displayed a burst of speed, which enabled the Powdermen to knot the score in the fifth inning. He was hit by a pitched ball and stole second base. He advanced to third base on Van Etten's infield out and on an attempt steal of home Messing made a balk by walking in front of the batter and Houghtaling was declared safe.

Wild base running on the part of Johnny Quest spoiled Hercules' chance of winning the game in the sixth frame. With none down Quest singled and took second on a passed ball. Dulin bunted safely and Quest overran third to be caught by Stumpf, assisted by Mills.

The Powdermen had another opportunity of winning the game in the last inning when Houghtaling again reached third, but he was stranded when Van Etten bunted out.

SIDELINERS

On the last play of the game a slight altercation happened. Van Etten after hitting the ball threw his bat and it hit Jimmy Martin. The Packers thought Van Etten did it intentionally and ran for him, but the players settled the matter without any damage and Van Etten offered to apologize for his act.

Jimmy Martin stole Scherer's quick delivery stuff in the first inning and breezed the third strike pass Van Etten while he was still thinking about the last strike.

Herb Mills, manager of Formosts, lost a fielder's glove, and would appreciate it if the finder would return it.

The standing of the clubs remain the same, with the Hercules one-half game in the van.

Houghtaling pilfered three bases during the course of the game.

Clinton Ave Church Beats Fein A.C. 5-3

The nine game winning streak of Fein's Main Street A. C. came to an abrupt end last night at the Fair Grounds when the Clinton Avenue Church softballers scored a 5-3 victory. Ferris Williams, after hurling a superb game, came to bat in the 9th inning and poked a single to center field with the bases full to win his own game. The game was fast and both sides played a fine brand of softball. Flemmings led the losers with 3 hits. Williams and Boss worked for the churchmen while Ben Fein and Lewis formed the losing battery.

Baptists Book Three Games Over Holiday

The Albany Avenue Baptist softball team has a busy schedule over the holiday. Tomorrow night at Forsyth Park the Baptists take on the Saugerties-Ulster team in a league game. Costello is slated to do the pitching for the Baptists with Shultis receiving. On Thursday the Baptists travel to Ellenville to engage the team of the Reformed Dutch Arms in a doubleheader. Neal Rockwell will probably get the assignment for the opener with Houghtaling pitching the nightcap.

The STANDINGS

By ANDY CLARKE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bill Terry, the baseball pundits will tell you, has made some smart moves this year.

As the Giants go thundering along, fading out of view from the rest of the National League pack, a look into the strategy of this dour manager shows that he has moulded his team with exceptional foresight.

For instance, Terry first bought Dick Bartell, the shortstop sparkplug who has more than proved his worth, and then swapped Johnny Salveson for Leon Chagnon as the moans of the faithful rose to the high heavens. Chagnon showed he had something on the ball in his first start when he allowed two hits.

Then Terry acquired Mark Koenig and Allyn Stout for Billy Myers and cash. Koenig, the shouters said, was all washed up—but he stepped in to play regularly in three infield spots.

Gus Mancuso also was all done, they said, but Terry had faith in him. Mancuso played regularly behind the bat and whaled the horsehide for about .300 throughout the spring. Then, too, Terry had more than a little to do with the development of the young pitchers, Slick Castleman and Al Smith.

As for himself, Terry says its pretty hard getting the bat around. That's why he's only been hitting for a little over 320 lately.

The Chicago White Sox in the American League tried a little managerial strategy yesterday and went out to defeat the St. Louis Browns, 4 to 1.

At Detroit, the Tigers moved within four points of second place by scalping the Cleveland Indians, 4 to 1. Wes Ferrell turned in his eleventh victory for the Red Sox, defeating Washington 8 to 3.

In the third game in major league history, the Chicago Cubs pounded out an 8-4 decision over the Reds at Cincinnati.

"Declining" Ability Of Students, Regents Answer to Complaints

Albany, N. Y., July 2 (AP)—Replying to charges that the recent regents' examination in commercial arithmetic was "too stiff," the State Education Department today blamed the "declining" mental ability of the students for all the fuss.

"The regents' examinations have been steadily growing easier," department officials said as they thumbed over numerous complaints, "but we are not easing our examinations as fast as the ability of the pupils is declining."

In New York students must pass the regents' examinations before their school work in a subject is recognized by the State Education Department.

Here is one question that evoked complaints from parents all over the state:

"A dealer bought 100 dozen men's shirts at $1.05 each, which he marked up 40 per cent for regular sale. All were sold except 10 dozen that were soiled or of odd sizes. The dealer decided to include these shirts in a pre-inventory sale. At what price should each of the remaining shirts be marked so that the dealer's entire profit will be 33⅓ per cent on the cost of the entire 100 dozen?"

The answer is .77.

The department maintains that the examination was not too difficult, and that the protested problem is a simple matter of percentage that ought not to cause trouble.

"All the regents' examinations in every subject are steadily growing easier," said Edward P. Smith of the division of examinations of the State Education Department. "Examinations are not so difficult as they were 25, 15 or even five years ago."

Because high school population has doubled within the past eight years, the examinations have been steadily lowered, Smith said, "in order to meet the needs of a constantly increasing school population which is so broad and inclusive that it contains many more pupils of lesser ability."

He explained that by and large, high school students are not "dumber" but that the increase in high school attendance, due largely to the depression and its consequent lack of employment for boys and girls, has brought into the high school pupils who formerly would have dropped out after completing grammar school.

With reference to the commercial arithmetic quiz, he said:

"The examination in business arithmetic that would have been passed in 1926 without a murmur, is protested today, although easier.

"We are not easing our examinations as fast as the ability of the classes is declining."

Mr. Smith added that while the commercial arithmetic questions prompted an unusually large number of protests, the June regents' examinations as a whole evoked fewer kicks.

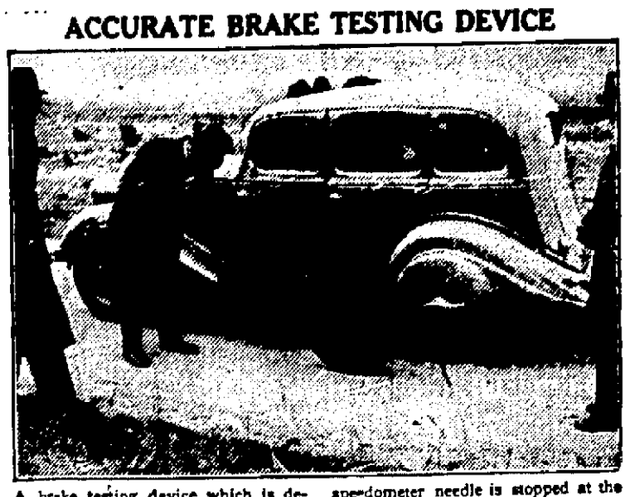
ACCURATE BRAKE TESTING DEVICE



A brake testing device which is described by engineers as ideal for its accuracy and simplicity is employed by the Brooklyn Edison Co., of Brooklyn, N. Y. This public utilities corporation employs a large fleet of cars which are kept in top notch condition. The device consists of a fifth wheel upon which is mounted a speedometer that is checked for exactness by the New York Police Department as well as the Stewart Warner Co., makers of the instrument. When the brakes are applied a gun is fired, discharging a slug against the ground, leaving a distinct mark. The speedometer needle is stopped at the speed at which the car was running when the brakes were applied. It is simple, then, to measure from the mark made by the gun to the point directly below the gun, where the car was brought to a stop. Thus the exact speed of the car is known as well as the exact number of feet and inches in which the stop was made. The fifth wheel is counterweighted so that it follows the ground accurately. A recent test on the Hudson car shown above recorded stops in phenomenally short distances, averaging about half the distance considered satisfactory by police departments.

REFORMATORY BREAK ATTEMPT IN INDIANA

Pendleton, Ind., July 2 (AP).—Slugs from a sawed-off shotgun killed one youth and injured another perhaps fatally as four prisoners tried to escape from the Indiana state reformatory here early today.

One of the quartet fled through the gunfire to freedom; the fourth cringed behind a wall where guards found him within 20 minutes.

None of the four was armed, Superintendent A. F. Miles said.

Simon Dyer was the prisoner killed; Robert McAllister was [illegible]ly wounded, and Robert Sanders was recaptured.

More than a score of guards, augmented by officers from surrounding towns, spread into the rolling country near the reformatory at daylight under orders to "beat the bushes" for Darrell Paul Jones, suspected ringleader of the attempted break; believed to be wounded.

It was the largest break ever attempted at the reformatory here, Superintendent Miles said. The institution was built in 1922 to accommodate youthful prisoners convicted of less serious crimes.
